DAUGHERTY'S SON TO BE QUESTIONED

Draper Daugherty, Son of Attorney General, Will be Consulted in King Murder Mystery

SAID TO HAVE KNOWN GIRL

Also Received Threatening Word From Blackmailers, According to Newspaper Reports

(By United Press)

New York, March 27—Assistant District Attorney Fred Pecora stated today he will summon to his office, in connection with investigation with the murder of Dorothy King, Draper M. Daugherty, son of Harry M. Daugherty, attorney general of the United States.

The same gang of blackmailers that killed Miss King is reported to have threatened Daugherty, although he had done nothing which he feared to have revealed. They told him they would expose his friendship for the girl, according to statements attributed to him in New York papers today. Daugherty, having nothing to conceal, defied them and offered to give the authorities any information in his possession.

"My only information concerning Mr. Draper Daugherty's connection with the case comes from the press," Pecora said, "but if I can locate Mr. Daugherty today, I shall most certainly ask him to come to my office for a conference."

At the Elks Club, Daugherty's New York address, the attorney general's son could not be found.

Interest in the case which had clung about the person of J. Keatsley Mitchell, Philadelphia millionaire friend and patron of the murdered artist's model, widened today to include the meeting between Daugherty and the district attorney.

Pecora has no official knowledge that Daugherty was even acquainted with the girl. All he has to go on are published articles and a purported interview with the attorney general's son in which he is quoted as saying frankly that he knew Miss King, that their friendship was entirely proper in every respect, and that he would be glad to tell the authorities anything that would help them.

POINTS TO VALUE OF SAFETY RULES

Ross Luellen, Safety Engineer Of Union Traction Co., Shows Results From Following Them

SPEAKS TO THE ROTARY CLUB

Ross Luellen of Anderson, safety engineer for the Union Traction Co., the author of Safety Sam, a feature in the Daily Republican, spoke briefly of safety methods and their value before the Rotary club at the noon luncheon today.

The club entertained several other guests, including Harold McClannahan of New York City, formerly of Rushville; A. H. Sutton of Chicago university, former Rushville high school basketball coach; Paul Binford of Greenfield and Gerald P. Bonney of Boston, singing evangelist. Mr. McClannahan who is an accomplished pianist played two numbers and was vigorously applauded.

Mr. Luellen spoke of the accomplishments of the safety organization of the Union Traction company which with more than 400 miles of track, both city and interurban, had not killed a single passenger in more than four years, through carelessness of the company's employees. During that time, he said, the cars had covered more than 30 million miles and had hauled more than 60 million passengers.

Mr. Luellen spoke of the care that should be exercised at rail crossings and pointed out that the newspaper story of an accident told only the first chapter of the long trail of trouble that follows in the wake of a mishap that might have been avoided.

DEATH OF ACTRESS MOURNED BY WORLD

France And All Countries Honor Death Of Madame Bernhardt, Greatest Of All Actresses

Body Reposes In Casket Selected By Her Twenty Five Years Ago—Many Pay Homage

By WEBB MILLER
(U. P. Staff Correspondent)

Paris, March 27.—A mourning France honored Sarah Bernhardt in death today as it had honored her in life. And the entire world joined in to do homage.

In the strange death chamber at her home on Boulevard Pereire, Bernhardt's body lay peacefully, her face relaxed and an expression of serene beauty on her face. Throughout the night, her son, grand children and most intimate relatives kept the death watch.

Safety Sam, Minus Habilidad of Corner Cop, Comes to Town for Brief Sojourn

Ross Luellen Of Anderson, Safety Engineer Of Union Traction Company, Speaks At Grade Buildings And High School Emphasizing The Importance Of Being Careful.

Safety Sam, minus the habiliment usually associated with him by readers of the Daily Republican, came to town today for a brief stay, to talk the doctrine of safety first to school children and grown folk alike.

Safety Sam, off the pages of a newspaper, is just plain Ross Luellen, ordinary citizen, with a title of safety engineer. He sits in an office building at Anderson, Ind., a good part of the time, trying to devise means and ways of saving a life here and a life there. His business is safety engineer for the Union Traction company, with its principal offices at Anderson.

Safety Sam spoke to all the grade building pupils this morning and wound up with a more extended address to the high school, and at noon spoke to the Rotary club at the regular noon luncheon at the Social club.

Safety Sam spoke in the language of the grammar grade pupils when he faced them as they assembled, each in the halls of their own buildings.

After the little folks had taken their places in the hall, flanked by their teachers, each with expectant, upturned faces (the scene was repeated at the Havens, Jackson and Graham Annex buildings) J. H. Scholl, superintendent of schools, asked the pupils how many remembered seeing in the Daily Republican each evening, the picture of a policeman with his right hand raised in warning. In every case, the response was instantaneous, and when Supt. Scholl asked them if they wished to see Safety Sam, there was a quick shaking of hands and nodding of heads.

WAY OF CROSS IS THE WAY TO GOD

Also The Way To Peace, Salvation And Life Eternal, The Rev. H. W. Hargett Points Out

SUNDAY SCHOOL REPRESENTED

Special Music At St. Paul's Church Tonight And Milroy Quartet Will Sing Wednesday Night

A large representation of the Sunday School teachers and their classes attended the revival services at the St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal church Monday evening, and aided greatly in the congregational singing preceding the sermon.

The pastor, the Rev. H. W. Hargett took for his text "A New and Living Way" found in Hebrew 10:20. It was the "way of the cross" of which the writer was speaking. He believed that way to be the way to God, to peace and to salvation and life eternal.

There will be special music tonight at the services and the subject for the pastor's talk will be "The Offense of the Cross." On Wednesday night a quartet from Milroy will furnish a vocal number.

"Jesus, when he was a small boy one day extended his arms, and the shadow of the cross was cast upon the ground before him. His mother saw it and her heart was sad because of his coming suffering but Jesus saw it and his heart rejoiced to go in the way of the cross", the speaker said in the beginning of his sermon.

Safety Sam Sings Parody At High School Assembly

Safety Sam, in closing his short talk at the high school assembly, sang a parody of his own composition, high school pupils joining in the chorus:

My Bonnie leaned over the gas tank,
The height of its contents to see;
He lighted a match to assist him,
—Oh, bring back my Bonnie to me!
My Bonnie just would ride an airplane
No parachute, however, had he;
The motor died 'way up in mid-air,
—Oh, bring back my Bonnie to me!
My Bonnie drove onto a crossing,
No oncoming train did he see;
His mind was bent only on pleasure,
—Oh, bring back my Bonnie to me!
My Bonnie climbed a nervous step-ladder,
Full faith in its strength, though, had he;
We called doctor, then undertaker,
—Oh, bring back my Bonnie to me!
My Bonnie looked into a gun barrel,
"No charge in it now," thought he;
His hand carelessly touched the trigger,
—Oh, bring back my Bonnie to me!
My Bonnie took work in a factory
Where dangers were thick as could be,
He stuck his hand in the machinery,
—Oh, bring back my Bonnie to me!
My Bonnie had no fear of car tracks
"They can stop if they want to," said he,
But came one which it seemed didn't want to,
—Oh, bring back my Bonnie to me!
My Bonnie took pride in his speeding,
"My car holds the road well," quoth he,
But a tire burst when he hit sixty,
—Oh, bring back my Bonnie to me!
Now Bonnies take too many chances,
And so long as they do, you'll agree,
Bereaved ones will always be singing,
—Oh, bring back my Bonnie to me!

IMPOSSIBILITIES IN RELIGION SEEN

The Rev. Gibson Wilson Enumerates Things That Can't be Done in Inherit Kingdom of God

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN SERVICE

Sunday School Classes are Represented and Many Members of School Join Church at Close

"Impossibilities in Religion" was the subject dealt with by the Rev. Gibson Wilson at the pre-Easter services at the First Presbyterian church Monday evening, the pastor pointing out the things that are impossible if there is a desire to be saved.

He said that it was impossible to enter heaven without being born again; to be saved without a personal faith in God; to believe and not be saved; to be saved after this life; to neglect the means of salvation in this life and escape the punishment of sin; for God to be false.

Gerald Bonney, singing evangelist, led the congregation in a song service and sang one solo. Each class in the Sunday school was represented and selected a song to be sung during the service. Several children in the Sunday school joined church at the close of the service.

The Rev. Mr. Wilson spoke in part as follows:

Some people have formed their own idea of the conditions of entrance into heaven without a study of the scripture. They think that all they have to do is to present themselves at heaven's door and they will be admitted.

Jesus said: "Except one be born anew he can not see the kingdom of God." We have been born physically, but a new life is to come into us which is from above, heavenly. It is not of earth. Only the spirit of God can create that new life within us, when we have determined to forsake our sin. It doesn't require learning or culture or social position—but a (Continued on Page 3)

DEFENDANT'S WIFE GAVE OUT SIGNALS

ACTIONS IN COURT ROOM

Grand Rapids, Mich., March 27.—A motion to have Mrs. Benjamin F. Purnell, the "wife of King Benjamin," of the House of David, excluded from the court-room during the hearing of the $80,000 damage suit brought against her husband, will be offered by counsel for the plaintiff at today's session it was learned.

Walter M. Nelson attorney for the plaintiffs, John W. Hansel and his wife of Nashville, Tenn., declared he had discovered a system of signalling going on between Mrs. Purnell and defense witnesses kept outside of the court room.

Nelson said he observed signalling between Mrs. Purnell and defense witnesses while Quinto Rosetta of Columbus, Ohio was on the stand. Rosetta testified that the damage suit was a deliberate attempt on the part of the Hansels to wreck the religious organization by frame up testimony.

He denied knowledge of several letters, said to have been written by him to his wife, Leona, and introduced by the plaintiffs.

Leona also denied knowledge of the letters when she was placed on the stand. The two witnesses were then instructed to write their names on a slip of paper which he offered by the plaintiffs as an exhibit.

MRS. H. A. ARBUCKLE IS DEAD

Funeral Of Manilla Woman Is Held This Afternoon At M. E. Church

Funeral services for Mrs. Leah Harris Arbuckle, age 25 years, wife of Howard A. Arbuckle, were held this afternoon at the M. E. church in Manilla, and interment was made in the Manilla cemetery. The deceased has been ill for three years, suffering from tuberculosis, and expired Sunday morning. Besides the husband, the deceased is survived by a daughter, Virginia Arbuckle, and her mother, Mrs. Mary Pattison at whose home she expired in Manilla.

The deceased was a native of Manilla, and was well known in the community, and during her lifetime was an active worker in the Methodist church of that town.

MAY PREVENT CASE ON FOR WEDNESDAY

Suit for Support Money is Filed by Eliza G. Meyers Against John Meyers

The law suit over a claim against an estate, with Minnie Means McKean plaintiff and the estate of Milton Huntington represented as defendants, was in the second day of its trial today and threatened to overlap on Wednesday, disrupting the court calendar for this week.

The suit which is in the nature of a claim, demanding $1,698.39 judgment, was sent here from Hancock county, and involves people in the vicinity of New Palestine, where the deceased was a former veterinary surgeon. Considerable interest was shown in the case as it progressed yesterday and today, and many witnesses were used by each side.

The defense today took their fling at the evidence, and little doubt was expressed as to whether the case could be completed by tonight.

In the event that the arguments cannot be heard, the case of the State against Ernest Pitman charged with larceny and scheduled for Wednesday, will have to be postponed until a later date.

Pitman is charged with stealing mink hides from Oneal Brothers in this city, and was arrested in January by members of the New Salem Horse Thief Detective Association, who are said to have traced him over into Fayette county and arrested him at his home near Orange. He has been at liberty on bond since his arrest.

One new suit was filed today, the complaint being by Eliza G. Meyers against John Meyers, and a suit for support money. The plaintiff alleges that the defendant has abandoned her without cause, and is living apart from her, failing to provide. He is said to be capable of earning good wages, and the complaint demands $25 a month allowance.

Several court cases are set for trial this week, and the jury may be used again following the trial (Continued on Page Six)

FAILS TO CONNECT THE TWO

State Unable To Hook Up Russian And American Reds

St. Joseph, Mich., March 27.—Attorneys prosecuting William Z. Foster failed today in efforts through testimony of defense witnesses to connect communists in Russia with those of America.

C. W. Gore cross-examined Charles E. Ruthenberg, star witness for Foster, on trial for alleged violation of Michigan's syndicalist law, and asked:

"Is it not true that B. R. Ernstien attended the Bridgman Communist convention as an official representative of the Red Trade Union Internationale of Moscow?" This brought a denial.

WHISKEY USED IN AUTO RADIATORS

EVERBODY WAS DOING IT

Clyde Hunter Denies Money Received From Bonds Was Divided Between Himself and Constable

(By United Press)

Indianapolis, Ind., March 27.—Confiscated whiskey was poured into the radiators of automobiles belonging to officials of Gary and Lake county to keep them from freezing, Clyde Hunter, former prosecuting attorney and a defendant, testified today in the trial of Lake County booze conspiracy case.

Hunter was asked regarding disposition of two cases of whiskey, which he said were left on his porch without his knowledge.

"I poured it into gasoline and turpentine cans and used it in the radiator of my automobile," he said. "My natural inclination is to put things to a practical use."

"Everybody in the City Hall used contraband liquor in their radiators."

The booze was left in Hunter's home by Dan Melloy, former constable. Melloy testified early in the case. Hunter said he did not know the man who delivered the whiskey.

Hunter denied testimony of Melloy that money received from bonds had been divided with Hunter and that confiscated whiskey was turned over to him. Hunter said he never used intoxicants.

Dwight Kinder, present prosecutor, who is also a defendant, denied testimony of Phillip Ukman, government star witness, who said Kinder beat him into unconsciousness with a black jack in the presence of Mayor Roswell Johnson, also a defendant, because he refused to sign a statement implicating federal prohibition agents in a black mail scheme against bootleggers.

Kinder on severe cross examination said he had never taken any steps to abate places where booze was sold. He said he knew there was an abatement statute, but he was not entirely familiar with it.

District Attorney Homer Elliott read statements purported to have been made by the Lake county grand jury condemning officials for failure to enforce prohibition. Kinder said (Continued on Page Six)

MRS. BARR QUITS AS STATE WAR MOTHER

Letter of Resignation Says Her Plans Make it Impossible to Give Time to Work

GOING ABROAD THIS SUMMER

(By United Press)

Indianapolis, Ind., March 27.—Indiana War Mothers were divided today over the question of the Ladies Ku Klux Klan, a secret organization.

The resignation of the Rev. Daisy Douglas Barr, president of the War Mothers, was accepted at a meeting of the executive committee, last night.

According to Mrs. Alice M. French gold star mother and one of the founders of the organization, declared members had strongly disapproved to Mrs. Barr's reported efforts in organizing "a woman's Ku Klux Klan" while she retained the office of president.

The letter of resignation submitted at the meeting said that Mrs. Barr's evangelical duties and her plans for a trip abroad this summer made it impossible for her to give the proper attention to the Indiana War Mothers.

"The majority of the members are not in favor of a woman's secret organization to correspond to the Ku Klux Klan and at any rate do not favor Mrs. Barr's using our time and our organization for this purpose," Mrs. French said.

windows of all the great buildings were lighted to form a cross, the others were kept dark. As Constantine the Roman emperor once saw a blazing cross in the sky, so over a million of people saw the cross in the largest buildings of Philadelphia. It suggested to them as to Constantine what the right way would conquer. The way of the cross became a great white way suggestive of the way to a nation's peace and prosperity.

"The way of the cross is the way to international peace. The nations have gone into a closed passage and have come to the dead end of things. The way of the cross is the way out. Materialism has sent us spinning off the main track, and only the Christ of the cross can get us on the way of safety and peace."

The pastor then pointed out the way of safety to the individual. "Many are lost in the labyrinth of sin. In the grounds of Hampton Court, twelve miles from London is the Labyrinth of Henry, the Eighth, which is over eight hundred years old. People, who enter the labyrinth can easily find their way out and many others can not. Often they become confused, wander in circles, come up against the ends of the path, turn back and travel miles and miles before they look up to a tower with a cross, where stands one ready to show them the way out. If it were not for the guide, some might never find the way out. People used often to sing Where Is My Wandering Boy. Many have wandered away and never look up to the one who is able to point them to the path of safety. In the War Cry, there is a pathetic page, where fathers and mothers write the names of the children, who have wandered away, lost in sin and are lost to father and mother, who once bent over them in love, but now they are lost to God."

"God planned that every child should be cared for. Every human soul is a possible child of God and when he turns his feet from the Father's house and his heart away from his shepherd, his business begins to fall and sin fills his heart. In order that they might find the way home God sent Christ into the world. It is the way of the cross that leads home."

The Rev. Mr. Hargett closed his sermon by describing the way which leads to another life. "The father one travels along the way, the more thoroughly alive he becomes. If you could find a road where the people would lose all their rheumatism, all stiffness of joints, all illness, all weariness, it would be very popular. The way of the cross is like that way, a way to fuller life, a way to life more abundant, a life that grows more beautiful day by day. Those who have been speeding on the way for half a century will tell you that life grows fuller and more beautiful, as the years pass."

Vincennes—There will be plenty of peaches this year, according to Robert Simpson, foremost fruit grower of Knox county.

SWEET PEAS NEED EARLY START

Sweet peas must be sown just as early as you can, if there is to be any certainty of a bountiful supply of their fascinatingly beautiful and fragrant blooms. In the Middle West it is now customary to put the seed in the ground on St. Patrick's day, if the soil can be worked, planting deeply in a trench which is then manured or mulched until the seeds begin to germinate, and filled in as the plants grow.

The one great secret of sweet pea growing is to provide a cool root run, and deep planting of the roots is necessary to give this condition. Of course, the richest and mellowest of soil is also essential. Sweet peas are such obliging annuals, giving a fair show of bloom often under adverse conditions, that they are seldom seen grown at their best, which means six foot vines.

Nitrogen culture is now sold with which to inoculate the sweet pea seeds. This assists greatly in developing an early and vigorous growth. Too thick planting is the great fault with most growers. The use of individual paper pots to start the plants growing will go a long way to get away from this trouble, as with the seedlings six inches or more in height before they are set into the ground it becomes impossible to crowd them into the soil, as is almost invariably done when sown where they are to bloom. Expert sweet pea growers say that six inches apart is the minimum distance.

When started in individual pots a supply of sticks or twigs must be ready to give them for support, or the plants will become a mass impossible of separation when it comes time to place them in the open ground. The seedlings must be given a cool situation in the house.

Ventilation Most Difficult Problem In The Building Of Poultry Houses

Many varying opinions are expressed on poultry house construction and all extremes are indulged in from the coop that has no ventilation and is almost air tight to the extreme open type that is ventilated as much as possible.

After experimenting with various types of construction the poultryman usually selects a type of building that is midway between these two.

The most serious difficulty is us-ter of considerable argument. The best results are usually obtained, however, in a house where there are at least four square feet floor space for each fowl; three square feet will answer for Leghorns and other varieties of the Mediterranean fowls provided the house is kept perfectly clean, except perhaps the Minorcas, which will need as much space as the American varieties. Large fowls like the Asiatics have about five square feet of floor space per head.

AN IDEAL POULTRY HOUSE

ually to secure satisfactory ventilation. Far too many poultry houses are built to take care of 50 to 100 hens and are used for three or four times that number.

Although it is not always possible or advisable to build a poultry house to fit all future requirements, care should be taken to provide for increases or decreases in the flock. Over-crowding of the flock in the winter time often brings unsatisfactory results and means considerable loss.

Most farms can support a flock of 300 to 400 hens economically. Poultry houses, however, are often based on a 100-hen unit, which is an economical unit to use, as it takes very little more to care for that many hens than for half that number.

Square Feet Per Fowl

The number of square feet floor space necessary for fowls is a mat-

Where the house is especially well ventilated the fowls may be crowded somewhat more with safety.

The smaller the unit is made, the more space proportionately will have to be allowed for each fowl, that is, a house with 400 square feet floor space will provide ample room for 100 fowls, yet only 200 square feet floor space will not be as satisfactory for fifty fowls.

When the house is too small for the flock, special care must be taken to keep the walls and floor exceptionally clean.

Poultry houses are made of all kinds of material, but more are made of frame construction than any other kind, partly because such a house can be easily erected by the average person and partly because wood provides a good insulation against the weather.

new spirit, a new heart, which makes us a new man.

Some people do not like the blood covenant way of salvation, but it is impossible to be saved without the shedding of blood. Heb. 9:22, "Without the shedding of blood there is no remission."

It was the blood sprinkled on the door posts of the people of God in Egypt that saved Israel.

The life of the flesh is in the blood and Jesus gave his life blood on the altar for our atonement.

It is impossible to be saved without a personal faith in the living God whom we acknowledge and serve.

A faith in him that leads to the forsaking of sin and yielding obedient service to him leads to salvation and eternal life. Without this faith there is left for us only our eternal destruction. Mk. 16:16.

It is impossible for us to believe and not be saved.

A belief on the Lord Jesus Christ as our own personal Savior whom we yield a living obedience gives us salvation. This is Paul's assurance to the jailor. Acts 16:31.

It is impossible to be saved after this life.

Scripture makes it very plain that there is a great separation between the godly and the ungodly after this life. There is no passing from one place to the other. The separation is complete and eternal. There is no infidelity or skepticism after this life. The truth is fully realized. Those who have lived away from God in this life are eternally separated from him in the next. Read Luke 16:26.

It is impossible for those who neglect the means of salvation in this life to escape the punishment of their sin.

The soul that is dead in sin can not enter heaven. The sin of neglect has deprived many persons of years of happy, useful Christian service and has defeated the plan of God for many lives. We have been placed here to honor God and if our life has been spent in the service of the devil we must expect to dwell with the master whom we have served.

The sin of neglect has robbed many of the joys of heaven. Heb. 2:3 It is impossible for God to be false. Hebrews 6:13.

Upon this basis we can deal with certainties. His promise is immutable, so is his oath. Neither can be moved.

The Christian's hope is fastened to an anchor that is unmovable. That anchor is in the heavens. The divine oath and promise of God have been confirmed by the cross of Jesus and sealed by his resurrection and ascension.

Our conclusion is that it is folly not to give attention to our soul's salvation now. When our joys are eternal why live away from God and in sin? What good reason can you give?

THEATRES MOVIES

At The Mystic Today

All of the Harry Carey productions of the past, among which have been some mighty good ones, are excelled by his latest production—his second under the auspices of the Film Booking Offices of America. It is called "Good Men and True," is founded on the story of the same name by Eugene Manlove Rhodes and was revealed for the first time at the Mystic Theatre yesterday and will be seen again today.

"Good Men and True," gives Harry Carey a role that fits him as snugly as a rubber skull cap fits the head of a batter. It is a part that he can play with far better effect than any other star now on the screen. He is a cowboy, of course, but this time is a candidate for sheriff, backed by the better element of a Western town and opposed by a vicious faction that would throw the community open to the forces of evil.

The love interest is furnished by his admiration of the daughter of his chief political backer. The girl is Vola Vale, that always charming brunette who formerly played opposite Wm S. Hart in his Western dramas and won thousands of admirers the country over. The romantic element is one of the outstanding factors that make for the extraordinary success of this latest Harry Carey vehicle.

The plot against his candidacy is particularly vicious. His opponents stoop to the lowest methods to overthrow him. But on election day the tide turns in favor of J. Wesley Pringle—Harry Carey's screen name in this instance—and he comes through with flying colors—the new Sheriff! There is one scene of exceptional novelty, in which drama and comedy is delightfully mingled.

"The Third Alarm"—Coming

Fire scenes that dwarf any others ever thrown upon a screen, lend many keen thrills to Emory Johnson's stupendous fireman's melodrama "The Third Alarm" coming to the Princess Wednesday and Thursday.

There have been many fire scenes produced in the annals of screendom but none has matched the conflagration portrayed in "The Third Alarm." Credit for this amazing achievement should go to Emory Johnson, the producer, and his technical staff who toiled for months for their realism.

The fire scene develops in this fashion. June Rutherford, daughter of a wealthy surgeon and sweetheart of Johnny McDowell, member of the fire department, is trapped by flames in her apartment on the top floor of a lofty structure. Smoke is seeping through the crevices of the doors into her rooms and the hideous crackling of the flames in the corridors strikes terror to her heart. She goes to the balcony, high above the street and is seen outlined against the smoking and flaming walls of the building, when the searchlight plays upon her.

Rescuers lose no time in reaching the stricken girl. Johnnie Walker, in the role of Johnny McDowell, leaps up the scaling ladder and after a perilous climb reaches the girl. Flames are leaping all about them and smoke chokes up their lungs. But the decent begins. As they are about to reach the ground a huge safe in one of the upper stories of the building crashes to earth, carrying tons of blazing debris with it to the bottom. The boy and the girl are caught underneath the safe and are saved when an old and discarded fire horse, with rope about its neck pulls and hauls the safe until he drags it out and frees the prisoners.

These scenes are carried forth with unusual speed and dramatic power and furnish one of the greatest thrills ever developed on the screen. The collapse of the towering walls of the building its gradual crumbling in the clutches of the roaring flames, also form scenes of stark realism.

The Richest Protein Complete Ration

IS ACME PIG MEAL equal to milk. It contains 28½ per cent of protein, whereas the home grown rations contain about 11 per cent protein. Therefore there is no ration which will grow the bone and frame equal to ACME PIG MEAL. The pigs carry the correct amount of condition and a bloom which make the PRIZE WINNERS AT NATIONAL SHOWS AND STATE FAIRS.

$1.34 Worth of Acme Pig Meal and pasture is a full ration and the cost of feeding each pig from birth until 5 months of age.

ACME PIG MEAL is a ration that the youngest pig can digest, and I urge you to commence feeding ACME PIG MEAL as soon as they will eat. It so takes the place of the sow's milk that the pigs will all wean themselves before they are 8 weeks of age, and thereby PREVENT RUNTS, LOSSES, and all drawbacks which go with improper feeding and improper rations.

MERCY ASSURED:—He that covereth his sins shall not prosper; but whose confesseth and forsaketh them shall have mercy.—Proverbs 28: 13.

The Spring "Clean Up"

From some source in the community there always is coming the call for a "Clean Up Day" or a "Clean Up Week."

Whoever makes the suggestion will mean well, but he or she really would help the community more by starting the slogan: "Don't call it a 'day' nor a 'week.' Let's have a real campaign."

A "day" is merely pathetic, and a "week" is hardly long enough to make even a fair start.

That's the first essential of any successful community effort in such work.

The second essential is to publicize the new order of things whatever is cleaned up. For example converting the unsightly dump into a playground, or painting the vacant lot with the green of grass and shrubbery or a thrift garden—but, however it be done, "clothe it in the garb of righteousness," and thereafter its cleanliness and orderliness will be respected by everybody.

Those who have experience in clean up campaigns and the reports of communities that now conduct some such work, testify both to the futility of community clean up efforts that are merely a "lick and a promise and the utility and effectiveness of the real campaign, well planned and properly conducted.

These facts are generally realized most of all by those city officials who look after the community cleanliness and health, and generally with inadequate budgets. It is impossible for them to co-ordinate their efforts with those of every household within a six-day period, though the public co operation that can be enlisted in a real campaign is invaluable to them, and to the community in the visible and lasting results secured and in the sense of personal responsibility for continuous care taking in these matters that is inculcated by such a campaign.

To "Get the habit" is the thing, and that never can be done in the annual bath of a "day" or a "week."

European Wreck

"Europe is gone," say many American observers. "Europe is ruined and wrecked. European civilization is doomed." Some Englishmen echo the doleful verdict, though they usually make an exception of England.

Assuming that this is true, what does it mean? Surely not, as is sometimes suggested, that Europe is going to revert at once to barbarism or that its inhabitants are going to be destroyed immediately by war, hunger and pestilence, leaving the continent a desolation.

There are no such sudden catastrophes except those of nature. History does not record the quick decline or destruction of any great civilization. It took nearly as long for Rome to decline as for it to rise to power in the first place. As far as can be seen, all great historic changes come slowly as to be almost imperceptible to the onlookers.

This, it may be supposed, is the way European decline will come, if the time has arrived. Three or four hundred million civilized people, including several great races, are not going to be wiped out before our eyes. But there may be, as a result of the war, such a thinning of good stock, such a draining of physical and mental vigor, that nations hitherto great may have lost their old vitality. They may have no more power to create, to construct, to forge ahead, as they used to. They may not be able to "come back." They may continue sliding down hill, in growing weakness, turning into indifferent, decadent races, of which many examples are to be seen today in various parts of the world.

But to make itself perfectly plain, such decadence may take a century or two. And it may not be true. Modern Europe may yet come back, and do great things.

CHANGING THE LETTERING OF THE TYPEWRITER KEYBOARD

A recent publication of a monthly journal of wide circulation advocates the changing of the order of lettering now in general use by manufacturers of all the leading makes of typewriters. The change is urged on the ground that the present order was adopted before the advent of the "touch system" of typewriting, and that the work is not evenly distributed among the fingers of each hand.

There are interesting changes in the new keyboard, that would seem to recommend it over the one now in use; but the mere suggestion of making a change, is like asking the typist to unlearn what has cost months of hard practice to master.

Changing the keyboard of the typewriter, is a subject for an international court of appeals. It is like changing the calendar: a most desirable thing from many points of view, but hard to bring into practice. Even the slight changes that are covered by special patents, and belong to separate typewriter manufacturer make the changing from one machine to another a very difficult operation, and a few days are required to bring about efficiency on a different machine from the one the operator has been accustomed to.

It is doubtful if the change would be of value except to those who have never learned the "touch system" on the present key-board; for the reason that there is a nerve control over the fingers which becomes automatic, and is almost out from under the control of the will power of the operator. This would necessitate the building of two patterns of machines for a number of years; in order to accommodate the beginners and those who had learned the old keyboard. This would leave the question with the pupil and teacher, and there would be no assurance which keyboard would become the most popular.

INDIANA MAY LOSE WRESTLING COACH

Jack Reynolds, Famous Wrestler, May Take Similar Position With Ohio State College

NEWS JUST LEAKED OUT

Match May Be Arranged Soon Between Reynolds And Kallio,
Minneapolis Champion

By HEZE CLARK
(Written for United Press.)
Indianapolis, Ind., March 27.—
Indiana University alumni were much surprised to see in a recent issue of the wrestling news, that Indiana would probably lose its wrestling coach Jack Reynolds, According to the story published under a Cleveland, O., date line, Reynolds just previous to his match with Walter Keegan, at Cleveland, announced he would probably make his headquarters in Cleveland, and that he had completed a deal to instruct the Ohio state University grapplers next year at Columbus, O. No announcement has been made previously by the Ohio athletic authorities that Al Haft would not remain at that college as coach of wrestlers. The statement of Reynolds made in Cleveland, brought forth a denial that he had been engaged at Ohio state or that Haft would remain with that school.

The shifting of Reynolds activities from Indianapolis to Cleveland however indicate that he might not be at Bloomington next winter.

William Ellis of Columbus, O., exploded a bomb shell among the wrestling fraternity of Indianapolis and other Indiana cities where the mat game has thrived during the past two years. Ellis, represents Gus Kallio, welterweight wrestler of Minneapolis, Minn. If his present plans carry out, it may be that Hoosier mat fans will see him matched with Jack Reynolds in the near future.

GETS 15 DAYS IN JAIL

Cassius Flowers, colored, was arraigned in police court Monday night on a charge of assault and battery on his wife, following his arrest Sunday night on that charge.
He was found guilty of the charge by Mayor Thomas, and fined $5 and costs, amounting in all to $15, which he was unable to pay, and went to jail for 15 days.

Firpo Has Big Chance

By HENRY L. FARRELL,
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, March 27—Where the path leads for Luis Firpo, the Argentine giant, depends largely on where Luis chooses to turn his steps.
Firpo has more natural fighting ability and he is the best prospect of any of the young heavyweights who have come to the front since Dempsey got his start.

Firpo has everything promising, but he has one of the Latin temperaments that may spoil what looks like sure fame and fortune for him.

Because some of his fellow countrymen in South America warned him to beware of scheming Americans, Firpo is suspicious of everyone. He looks upon all who approach him as connivers who are out to do him harm.

Even with Jimmy De Forest, who trained him for a few weeks when he first came to this country and who handled him in the Brennan fight, he is restrained and wary and it does not permit him to get the full value out of the excellent education that De Forest is capable of giving him.

As an example of the peculiar type of a pupil that Firpo is, De Forest tells the story that when he was working with him last year, one of Firpo's friends went to him and told him that De Forest was Dem-psey's trainer and that Jimmy would teach him wrong, so that Dempsey could beat him. Firpo became suspicious and quit De Forest.

If he continues to suspect, everyone he will make the way harder, although it might not necessarily keep him from winning the title. De Forest is about the one trainer in the country who knows enough to make a great fighter out of the South American.

Nearly all of the veterans who have looked over the South American find in him a striking resemblance to Jim Jeffries when he first came out. Tex Rickard, who is one of the most enthusiastic boosters of Firpo, says that he really is another Jim and that he will be the next champion.

The most impressive things about Firpo are his ability to take punishment and his tremendous hitting power. He also has a great fighting heart—and little else is needed.

Firpo must learn to box a little, but that is only a minor detail. His left hand also needs attention, but that also can come with training.

It seems now that Dempsey has only two men as real contenders for the title—Firpo and Harry Wills.

DEATH OF ACTRESS MOURNED BY WORLD

the great brick walls that harbored the crushed flower of France, their modern Joan D'Arc and the greatest actress of all time. They came at the rate of 150 an hour to pay homage at her shrine of death.

The funeral probably will be arranged for Thursday.

Early this morning government officials, cabinet members and those of highest estate in the land called at the residence. The subject of a state funeral was discussed among the relatives. No definite decision has been made.

Later the members of the family started removing the movie scenery from the living room to which the body will be brought. It will lie in state so that the rich and poor and unfortunate admirers may review it.

A rosewood casket which Bernhardt had purchased years ago in the wish that she might be buried in it was brought from the upper floor of the house. It is being lined with white silk. In it she had posed for death 25 years ago.

In the subways and boulevards throughout Paris, little groups were gathered reading eagerly from the morning newspapers which eulogized her as "the symbol of modern France." The prints stressed her great sincerity, her marvelous energy and her love for their common country.

The death of the great actress was as strange as her life. For hours she fought off the effects of the poison steadily creeping through her body like a drug. Armed with the great vitality which had enabled her to continue her work on the stage despite her 78 years, she fought off death. But the greatest strength finally prevailed, and she died at 8 o'clock last night.

The performance at the L'Aiglon theatre, where Bernhardt had intended playing prior to her illness, was stopped in the middle of the first act, and the audience left, many weeping.

When Pecora saw this, although he had no previous or official intimation to link young Daugherty's name with the case, he deemed it sufficiently important to warrant his statement that he would ask the man to call on him at his office today.

Pecora will probably ask Daugherty to name the man who, according to the version given publicly here, telephone him twice and demanded that he be given a job with the department of justice, intimating that otherwise he would tell about Daugherty's alleged friendship with "the Broadway butterfly."

Identification of this man, it is believed, may lead to the gang which plotted to "shake down" Mitchell, Philadelphia millionaire and chloroformed Miss King when she refused to act as the bait.

Mitchell, who was involved in the case in revelations made by Pecora last Saturday, was understood to be in Washington today, waiting to meet his wife, who is enroute from Palm Beach to Philadelphia in the private car of E. T. Stotesbury, his millionaire father in law.

while at play. He tried to make them see the serious consequences that might result from picking up a wire that might be charged with electric current, the dangers of walking along railroad or interurban tracks and the multiplied chances that a child has each day to become permanently injured.

"None of you want to walk around on crutches the remainder of your days, do you?" Safety Sam asked, and the response in the form of shaking hands made it unanimous. "It's hard enough to make a living nowadays with all your hands and arms and legs and feet and eyes and everything, so why take the chance of becoming a cripple?"

"When I was a little chap such as you are now," said Safety Sam to the little folks, "I never had the chance to get hurt that you have. I had to walk two miles to school and didn't have to cross a single railroad track. There were no electric wires that I could pick up. But even in those days, I remember we occasionally fell in the creek, and once a boy fell on a corn stock and was terribly cut."

To the high school, Safety Sam emphasized the importance of school boys and girls training themselves to be careful. He pointed to the loss of life that is due to carelessness, not alone at railroad crossings, but likewise in industrial plants.

In all, Safety Sam carried his message to eleven hundred pupils of the public schools, cautioning them all to be careful always in crossing streets, where the greatest danger lies. He warned school children to always look to the left before crossing the street, and then to the right after reaching the middle of the street, to make certain that no machine is coming.

he read the statements in the newspaper and he presumed they were made by the grand jury.

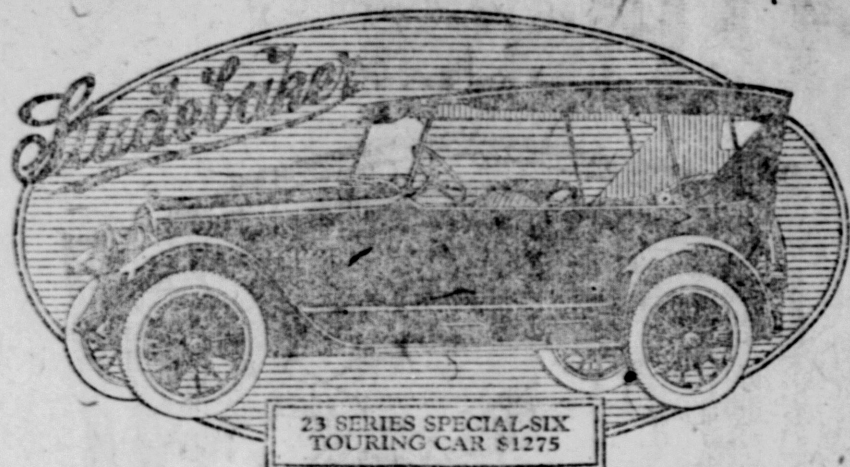

Federal Judge Geiger scored attorneys for the defense for what he termed lack of order and cooperation.

"Let us get some order in this case," the judge said, interrupting the proceedings. "There has been none so far on the part of the defense."

The statement was made when Moses B. Liary, attorney for Mayor Johnson, asked permission to deviate from the outlined course of proceedings and put two witnesses on the stand to refute testimony of the government's star witness, Phillip Uzman.

The court refused to grant the request.

WANT ADS GET RESULTS

You make no mistake when you select the Series 23 Studebaker Special-Six Touring Car. You can determine, in advance, why it is so desirable a car to own by doing four simple things.

Come in and inspect it carefully—from radiator to stop-and-tail light. Note its long graceful lines, the beauty of its finish and upholstery, its sturdy construction, roominess and unusual equipment.

Get behind the wheel yourself. See how conveniently all controls are placed. Notice what a relief it is to have a one-piece, rain-proof windshield, giving unobstructed view of the road ahead.

Test its acceleration, power, flexibility. Drive through traffic at low speed in high gear. See how conveniently it can be parked where space is limited.

Then compare any car within $300 of its price with the Special-Six.

SPRAY URGED TO CONTROL DISEASE

Most Farmers Think Of Spraying To Kill Bugs, While Such Process Also Prevents Diseases

COMMON WITH POTATO VINES

Mixture For Preventing Diseases And Manner Of Using It Are Prepared For Farmers

Spraying in Rush county is followed by most farmers in order to get rid of potato bugs but spraying to control diseases and keep the vines vigorous is not commonly done. The practice of thoroughly spraying has given increase in other parts of the state, of as much as 30 bushels per acre. Whether or not growers can afford to spray in Rush county will depend upon conditions in your potato field. If your vines die before frost on the late crop or the early ones die prematurely with tip burn, then you can keep them green and growing about two weeks longer, by thorough spraying with Bordeaux mixture.

However, unless you are equipped with a sprayer, that will deliver 150 pounds pressure under three nozzles to a row, then you had better not spray with Bordeaux for tests have shown that only thorough spraying with high power will give increased yields.

Bordeaux mixture can be mixed with lead arsenate and the bugs controlled at the same time. The first spray usually applied when the vines are about four to six inches high and repeated every 10 days to two weeks until four applications are made.

Just how to make Bordeaux mixture, proper equipment, and how to arrange it is all given in Purdue Extension Bulletin 89 which may be had at the county agent's office free of charge.

Watson Says It Was Just Like Talking Down Rain Barrel

Washington, March 29—Senator Jim Watson of Indiana has a most persuasive way about him and, as one of the senate "leaders", usually may be counted on to bring home the bacon when he goes after information from departments under the present administration.

During the recent period of speculation as to what America was or was not doing in Europe, however, Jim had hard luck.

An interview with a high diplomatic official which Jim and his colleagues had counted on to enlighten them as to just what was what produced nothing of tangible value. Jim himself had been forced to do all the talking. The diplomat, being a real diplomat, had simply listened.

"What luck? What'd you find out?" senators "in the know" inquired of Watson after he returned from the state department.

"Nothing!" Jim answered in disgust. "It was just like talking down a rain-barrel. All I got back was the sound of my own voice."

THEATRES MOVIES

Thrills, Galore At Princess

The search for a thrill, a new and unique thrill with the tingle of swift and dramatic action, is ever the problem of the motion picture producer. As time passes and producers continue to outdo one another in the development of thrills on the screen, one begins to wonder when, if ever, the great storehouse of thrills will be exhausted. What, moreover will producers do then?

Emory Johnson, famous producer of "The Third Alarm" for F. B. O., has a knack of developing thrills that carry all the tingle and crash of a Jovian thunderbolt—yet Mr. Johnson, as he admitted recently is hard put to it in his constant efforts to create new and big ideas to build up his photoplays.

In "The Third Alarm," for instance, Mr. Johnson took a number of ideas that had been the basis of thrills in the past but he has done them in such a novel manner and developed them in such magnitude that screen critics are hailing him as a genius in this phase of photoplay construction.

The great fire scene is a case in point. There have been fire scenes on the screen before. There is nothing especially novel in such an episode. But the conflagration in the unusual picture at the Princess again today has been developed by the hand of a master—a director who knows to the last detail how to project a scene from the screen in order to get across to the audience the full measure of its dramatic effect.

The fire scene in "The Third Alarm" hits the spectator right smack in the eye. It comes at you full force with a bang! It is this manner of introducing the fire scene that makes it entirely new and novel as a factor of entertainment that reflects the high skill of Mr. Johnson and his technical staff.

At The Mystic Today

Students of the American Indian are as one in declaring that if there is one characteristic of the Indian that stands out above all others it is his ability to keep his troubles to himself, but never to forget a wrong that has been done to him.

The Indian is stoical. That is, he is slow, deliberate and undemonstrative. What he does he does with great deliberation. Cases are on record of Indians who have waited fifty years to even a score, without breathing their secret to a living soul.

That is the type portrayed by Al Hart, the sterling actor of western roles, in his newest starring vehicle, "The Trail to Red Dog," which

In this picture Al Hart, for the first time in his long and brilliant screen career, departs from the western types that have made him famous all over the world where-ever the silver sheet is shown. He plays the part of an Indian chief and he does not play it in an over-drawn or "story book" manner but exactly as he has seen the Indians on their own reservations in the west where he has lived all of his life.

As Chief White Horse, he sees a no-account white man come into his camp, win the love of his daughter and then leave her as a broken toy. Heartbroken, the maiden plunges from a cliff to her death. The Chief swears vengeance. He waits for several years, but finally finds his man, in the midst of a chain of events so exciting and replete with thrills that the audiences that have seen it, literally jump out of their seats. You will have no dull moments when you go to see "The Trail to Red Dog" at the Mystic today.

"Nero" At The Annex

A motion picture of unusual interest and worth will be given at the Graham Annex auditorium, April 5 and 6. The picture is entitled "Nero" and depicts the history of Rome at the time that tyrant Nero reached the height of his ambitions. The story of Nero's heartlessness and nefarious mode of life gives a true picture, which shows by comparison the great advance in the true picture, which shows by comparison the great advance in the true type of rulers.

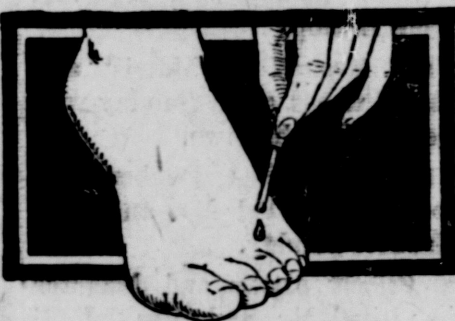

Nero longs to immortalize himself by expressing in song his nefarious deeds. Although a poor singer, he plans to burn Rome and while the city is burning to write a lyric to show off the marvelous possibilities of his voice. The scene showing the burning city is full of thrills, for while the mad flames leap from building to building, Nero tries in vain to compose the song which shall bring him undying fame.

In the midst of the ruler's effort to complete the lyric, the enraged populace rush to the palace and charge Nero with having ordered the city to be burned. His wicked wife standing near him suggests to Nero that he throw the blame upon the Christians. Nero gets the attention of the mob and leads it to believe that the Christians are to blame for the holocaust. Nero declares that the Christians shall be thrown to the lions for their iniquity.

The scene of the lions in the arena ends the triumph of the wicked Nero, for then Horatius returns in triumph from Spain and a plot to make Galba emperor instead of the tyrant Nero brings the story to a close, after Nero takes his own life, and the ways is left open for Horatius and Marcia to become man and wife.

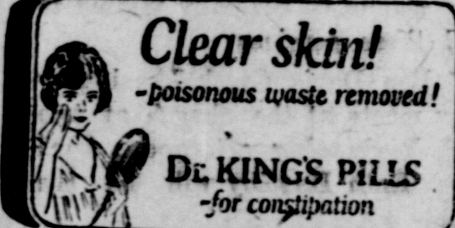

Tickets may be bought from the senior class of the Rushville high school which is sponsoring the entertainment.

GAINED 20 POUNDS BY TAKING TANLAC

Wife Fully Restored From Long-Standing Stomach Trouble, Declares Oetzel

"I know from experience that Tanlac is worth many times more than its cost. It ended my wife's indigestion, built her up twenty pounds, and I am now taking it myself," declared Louis Oetzel, 117 Putnam Ave., East Peoria, Ill.

"For four years my wife suffered so terribly with stomach trouble, and her appetite was so poor she grew thin, weak and run-down to where she was just a shadow of her former self. What little food she ate seemed to do her more harm than good and she would suffer for days with bilious attacks. She was never without headache, kept on losing weight and going down hill all the time.

"But she is a different person since taking the Tanlac treatment. Her appetite is a wonder, her food all agrees with her, she has no more biliousness or headaches and, in short, is rid of all her old troubles. Tanlac has been a blessing to her and we will always praise it."

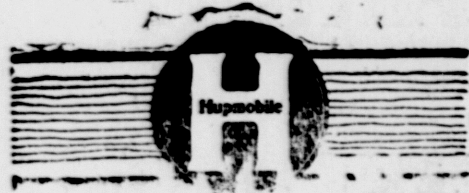

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 35-million bottles sold.

The tendency this season is to get away from the too tailored lines and there is certain simplicity of cut in all suits together with that charming inclination to be extremely feminine in all matters of style.

Rush County, Banner Corn County

CHAIRMAN MAKES AN APPEAL

D. D. Ball Has Arranged Meeting
Thursday For Those Interested—
Quota is 4,600 Bushels

With the largest corn crop of any other county for the year 1922, Rush County can not fail to do her share this year in the Gift Corn Campaign for the starving children of the Near East, which will be launched in the county the first part of April. D. D. Ball, the director of the drive for this county, is calling a meeting of leaders to be held at the court house assembly room next Thursday afternoon.

At the meeting a message will be received from a volunteer worker in the work from Shelby County, a man who put over his township to the tune of over 1000 bushels of corn last year.

The donations from this township alone meant keeping 1000 orphans alive for two months and a half. The speaker is coming to the meeting without compensation, merely because he has the work at heart.

Compared to the showing of this one township, Rush county raised only 1033 bushels altogether last year, and the quota was 3500 bushels. But old Rush will come back and redeem herself this year and will no doubt subscribe her full quota which is 4600 bushels.

LITTER WEIGHS 417 POUNDS

The litter of eight pigs farrowed January 11 on the farm of Chester A. Meal of Orange township, weighed a total of 417 pounds, with an average weight of 52 pounds. It was erroneously reported two weeks ago that they weighed 132 pounds at twelve weeks of age. That was their weight at three weeks of age, at which time the largest one in the litter weighed 19½ pounds and the smallest one 14 pounds.

At this time of year lumps or bots the size of a quarter or a little larger are to be found on the backs of cattle. These are caused by the larvae or maggots of a two-winged bee-like fly known as the ox warble or heel fly, according to G. M. Stirrett of the Department of Entomology of Purdue University. "The general adoption of simple practices at this season of the year," says Mr. Stirrett, "will eliminate the large losses which are at present being experienced by the farmers of Indiana."

This insect causes an annual loss of about $2,000,000 to the cattle owners of Indiana through the depreciation in value of hides which are rendered unfit for use as high grade leather by the holes made by the maggots. Other losses to the cattle industry from this insect are difficult to accurately estimate but infested cattle, especially young animals, show a loss of flesh, a retarded growth and in the case of milking cows a lessened milk flow.

There is no practical spray for the control of this insect. However, a simple and practical control which is harmless to animals and very effective against the maggots is a treatment of the bot-pores with a mixture of iodoform and vaseline. The insecticide is easily prepared by thoroughly mixing one part of iodoform in five parts of vaseline. The animals should be examined frequently during February, March and April, and as the lumps become noticeable a small amount of the iodoform mixture, about the size of a small pea, is pressed into the small hole at the summit of the swelling. Since the bots develop over a period of several months it is important that the animals be examined frequently during the late winter and early spring months and the newly forming bots treated as they appear. The insect has a complicated life

WHAT SOME RUSH COUNTY FARMERS SAY OF SOY BEANS

I think soy beans planted with corn and hogged off makes the cheapest pork that the farmer can produce. Wm. Plessinger.

I sowed seed solid with drill and was bothered with weeds. Would sow in rows and cultivate. Harvested with hogs and they did fine. Don't believe I wasted a bean. Soys are alright. T. C. King.

I think soy beans one of the promising crops I ever started to raise. My beans will be drilled as before only a little thicker and a little deeper. R. L. Blount.

I think that soy beans furnish a good cheap homegrown supplement to corn for feeding hogs. I do not like soy bean hay; the stems are too stiff and hard. However, the cows like the leaves and finer part. Paul E. McDaniel.

Am going to plant all corn in soy beans, put them in silo and fodder and the rest hog down in the field. Edw. J. Chambers.

Second best crop on farm (corn being first.) I will probably use binder instead of self-rake. I plant in rows 30 inches apart. How is this for a rotation? 1 year corn, 1 year corn and soys hogged off, 1 year soys alone, 1 year wheat or rye, 1 year clover? Emery VanDeventer

I get well paid for the time and expenditure on the sowing of soy beans in my corn. The only trouble I find is the beans shell out too quick and I think many are lost.

I like them fine as hay and as a splendid crop where clover has failed; as feed for hogs, as a con-

Soy Bean Oil Meal For Laying Pul-

FEW PLANTS IN OPERATION

May be Big Demand For Crops When Plants Become More Numerous to Supply The Demands

Soy beans are being raised in greater abundance each year in Rush county and the state, because of their value in certain crop rotations, and even an added benefit is brought out, in a preliminary report of feeding soy bean oil meal to laying pullets, made public by Purdue experts.

As yet the soy bean oil meal is in its primitive stage, because there are only a few such plants in existence, and the demand cannot be supplied, but the value of such feed has been tested by Purdue officials, and favorably passed upon.

The soy bean oil meal will no doubt make a big demand for the crop among the farmers in the near future years, and a three-fold purpose will result. First, it will give the land the needed ingredients for crop rotations; secondly it will create a stronger demand for the beans for the commercialized purpose, and third, it will supply poultry raisers with feed for their chickens.

Those who raise soy beans have been endeavoring to find a place for them in the rations of farm animals, in order that they may get the greatest income from this crop. There are springing up over the country, mills which will take the oil from the soy beans, leaving a residue known

A HAMPSHIRE HOME ON A HAMPSHIRE FARM

By E. M. HARSH
Managing Editor of
The Hampshire Advocate

The palatial country home shown here was built and a Stutz automobile purchased from the profits of Hampshire Hogs during 1916 and 1917 at a total net cost of over $13,000.

R. T. Stanford is farming 320 acres of Indiana land near Boston, Indiana.

Everyone of the hogs was a Hampshire from registered stock and every one of them went to the packers' market. R. T. Stanford unhesitatingly gives the credit for this wonderful home, modern in every conceivable way and equal in every respect—even to the landscape gardening—to a millionaire's country estate, to the Hampshire brood sow.

During the years of 1918 and 1919 this man marketed from this farm a total amount of $29,846.55, in eleven shipments of hogs as follows:

February 11, 1918	$3,543.59
March 9, 1918	2,936.13
July 13, 1918	503.08
August 17, 1918	596.61
September 5, 1918	5,018.05
January 11, 1919	4,810.99
February 21, 1919	2,710.75
June 9, 1919	2,516.93
August 2, 1919	3,284.69
August 9, 1919	100.00
December 26, 1919	2,375.23
January, 1920, (hogs raised and fed in 1919)	1,450.50
Total	$29,846.55

These hogs were all fed and raised on the products of this 320 acres of Indiana land. The commission receipts and even bank pass book were sent to this office to verify these figures. $29,846.55 was a pretty good salary, even during 1918-19, to be getting from the hogs—making it quite worth while to do the hog chores. There are some who may say, "Oh, well! That was during 'boom' times when hogs were selling high," but do not forget that the opportunity in the hog business was not as great then as it is right now. The hogs represented by the above figures sold at an average of a little less than 17c per pound. With the hog market now at 10c and corn selling for only about half as much as it did during 1918 and 1919, the margin of profit is decidedly greater now than then.

Following is a part of Mr. Stanford's letter giving some detailed information as to how his hogs were handled: "These hogs—covered by the figures I have included on a separate sheet, in support of which, I am sending both my commission man's statements and my bank pass book—were all raised on 320 acres of land. They were watered in galvanized and concrete tanks and I make a special effort to keep troughs cleaned out every day—scraped out and fresh water supplied at all times. My hog houses and my hogs are both kept clean and free from parasites and disease.

"I never allow to exceed three sows, with their pigs to run together in one lot. I keep them separate in these lots of three until the pigs are old enough to wean and then turn them together, so as to take less care. I allow the pigs to run at all times to some kind of clover, alfalfa, or blue grass pasture adjoining their lot. I keep my fattening hogs well bedded with clean straw in cold weather, to prevent their piling up and to prevent such epidemics as 'flu.' With all my feeding hogs, I feed on concrete floors which are kept clean, with corn in self feeders, as I have been able to make greater gains in feeding shelled corn. My hogs, of all ages have access to salt, charcoal, oil meal and tankage fed in self feeders, at all times, with alfalfa meal added in the winter.

"I am enclosing a photograph of my house which was paid for by Hampshire hogs. Every dollar which was put in it as well as a Stutz car in 1917—the two totaling over $13,000—was profit from Hampshire market hogs that I sold in 1916 and '17. My profit for 1918 and '19, you may judge for yourself, from the figures which I have already given you—a total of $29,846.55 worth of Hampshires marketed.

"I am a 'dyed-in-the-wool' Hampshire enthusiast, or, as I put it, 'Hampshirized.' Although not a registered breeder, I do use registered stock. The reason that I have been raising Hampshire hogs for the past seven years is that they do not lie around the barns and buildings and are the greatest range hogs I know of. I have been raising hogs all my life and am now fifty-two years of age and have raised Chester Whites, Duroc Jerseys, Poland Chinas, and Hampshires. At the present time I am feeding 125 fat hogs, also have 125 head of fall pigs on 160 acres of land. (Signed) R. T. STANFORD.

A wonderful country home such as the one shown in this illustration, built entirely from the proceeds of feeding market hogs should serve as proof of the stability of that side of the pure bred business and as an ideal for all of our farmers and breeders to work toward. Remember this man raised practically all of his feed and that he was able to build this home through the profits from two years of feeding Hampshires. Under the conditions we now face there is just as great an opportunity in the hog business as we have ever seen. The present margin or profit between the price of grain and the price of hogs even further justifies the pure bred hog business from the market standpoint, in that we are again getting back to normal conditions. It justified it during the hard times we have just passed through and it justified it during the 'boom' times immediately following the war.

COUNTY SHOULD GIVE ITS QUOTA

said today that he has no doubt as to the outcome of the campaign because of the fact that those who will attend the meeting are ones that are interested in work of this kind.

By the time the campaign is completed all Rush county will be interested in the big problem of the Near East and the saving of thousands of Christian orphans who will die of starvation if not helped by America and other Christian nations.

The Rush County quota is the amount of corn required to produce 46,000 pounds of pork. The same amount of corn will prolong the life of 11,500 Armenian children for a period of one month.

"Will Rush county do this?" is the question which Rush county farmers have to answer and those behind the campaign believe that they will respond to the appeal.

A cablegram from Constantinople, dated March 14, which has been distributed among county chairmen working in the corn appeal, tells of the conditions in the Near East as follows:

Today's shipload of exiles from Asiatic Turkey increased to 32,000 the total number of refugees now at Constantinople. Sick, destitute and without food, clothing or homes to go to, they present a tremendous relief problem calling for prompt energetic action if they are not all to perish.

Constantinople is menaced by the worst epidemic of diseases in its tragic history. Near East Relief has gone to their assistance with American doctors, nurses, medicines food-stuffs and clothing, thus assuming a new responsibility severely taxing its limited resources.

In the harbor, crowded with twenty-one warships of seven different nations, are four refugee ships crammed with deportees from Asia Minor, who have waited for days to be landed. Ashore, at eleven different places along the beautiful Bosphorus, earlier arrivals are huddled together in windowless, doorless, leaky buildings, under conditions beyond description. Afloat and ashore, smallpox, typhus, dysentery and pneumonia go unchecked. Yesterday's death toll in Bosphorus camps was seventy-two. Weakened by days of travel, by wagon and on-foot from interior Anatolia to the Black Sea ports, Trebizonde and Samsoun, these wretched people fall easy victims to disease. On one ship enroute 200 died out of 2500, and Doctor Wilfred Post of Princeton called it a "Black Hole of Calcutta."

At Scutari, where the worst conditions prevail, 10,000 deportees are existing in Selamlı Barracks and stables. Deaths average 25 daily. Typhus today claimed the last member of a family of twelve to fall victims to that disease since arrival here. The fourth physician to die of the same malady while attending refugees succumbed yesterday. Dr. Post, on one of his rounds, counted 100 dead bodies. Wrapped in bundles of rags, death had come days before the living knew it. One room contained 53 bodies. Refugees were afraid to bury them for fear of contracting disease. 3000 people, who a few weeks ago were prosperous farmers in Anatolia, live on mud floors of stables, where many of them become staring skeletons from undernourishment and are waiting to die. Children are brought into the world a few feet from where the village priest offers prayers over the dead.

No less terrifying are scenes at Boadjikey Camp and other Depositions of the destitute and starving exiles. Especially heart-rending is the plight of 1200 dumped into a shelterless cove at Asiatic Kavak a few days ago, where they are exposed to cold and rain and where pneumonia is mowing them down.

Turkish gendarmes who guard these concentration camps have strict orders from Angora prohibiting taking photographs.

history. The eggs are whitish in color and laid on the hairs of the animal. These hatch in four or five days into small whitish maggots or larvae which crawl down the hair and burrow into the skin. The maggots spend from 10 to 11 months within the animal working their way through the body tissues. By spring they have found their way to the back. When they arrive here they cut minute holes through the hide through which they breathe. This opening at once offers a means of reaching the maggot by insecticidal treatment as already suggested.

During their lodgment in the back they grow rapidly causing the lump and the hole, to become larger and more noticeable. When full grown the maggot makes its way through the hole and falls to the ground where it goes into the pupal or resting stage. The pupal stage lasts from 20 to 60 days depending upon the temperature, after which time the adult fly emerges and is soon ready to lay eggs, the period during which the flies are active and laying eggs usually being from April to June.

LOVE IS FICKLE FLAME

Chicago, March 27.—Love is a fickle flame that comes and goes under the influence of food, climate and material objects.

A wife may be passionately fond of her husband during the full moon and instantly disdainful when it rains.

Love is subject to the dynamics of a tea.

Hubert Sturgess of Northwestern university distributes questionnaires to his class daily to record their experiences with love. He finds that some think one thing and hold an entirely different thing the next.

Exhaustive study of emotions by Sturgess revealed that patriotism once planted in the breast, was the most constant and waned only under terrific influences.

Results of 1922 Carcass Contest at International Livestock Exposition are Submitted

By LINK JINKS

(President, Big Type Poland China Association of Rush County)

Our farm journals and newspapers carry numerous contributions and editorials regarding what is said to be an essential change which must be made in the type of hog which farmers must raise for market. They say farmers must raise hogs which will meet the packer's demand and that demand is for a "bacon" or "meat type" hog. They say the big type hog no longer is profitable for the farmer because it is not the kind of hog the packer wants.

I believe this propaganda is absolutely misleading. The Chicago packers promote and support a swine carcass contest every year at the International Livestock Exposition. The barrow at the 1922 Exposition which dressed out the highest percentage of edible meat, with seven breeds competing, was a big type poland china, and the barrows of the same breed made a higher av-as soy bean oil meal, containing between 45 and 50 percent protein.

This makes it a very valuable source of supplying protein appearing to be comparable with meat scraps which contains 50 percent protein and tankage which contains 60 percent protein.

The poultry department of Purdue started investigations in 1920 to find a place for soy bean oil meal in the hen's ration. This feed must not be confused with ground soy beans, sometime called soy bean meal, according to the Purdue investigation, as the oil is an entirely different process.

The Purdue station has conducted the experiment with the new food for two years, and the result was most encouraging. When such plants are established in this state, it will no doubt cause farmers in Rush county to increase their yield, and prove profitable in many ways.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night just to keep right. Try them. 15c and 30c.

As Holdings of Landlords in State Increase, Our Forest Area Decreases

By CHAS. C. DEAM

(State Forester for The Department of Conservation)

The holdings of landlords in Indiana increases as our forest area decreases. That there is a very close and important relation between Indiana forests and the holdings of landlords is not far-fetched, and is an important phase of forestry that has been neglected.

As one journeys throughout Indiana his attention is directed to the many decadent and empty dwellings in the rural districts. In the rich agricultural districts the old home steads have been replaced by more commodious homes in more desirable relations to good roads, schools, churches and other conveniences. The old homestead became the home of a tenant. He was regularly employed on the farm of the landlord or by neighboring farmers during the summer months and during summer and winter months worked at various tasks. When improved agricultural machinery came into universal use, and forests began to wane, the tenant was out of a job, at least much of his time, and was forced to move to the city. Statistics show that our rural population is steadily decreasing. In many of our countries the decrease during the past twenty years amounts to 10 to 19 per cent, while Brown County, one of the hilliest counties, has had a decrease of 28 per cent.

In our hilly counties there is another reason for this exodus to the city. When the hill farmer started his farm he sawed and sold enough timber to erect his buildings. In a few years he was able by farming in the summer time and working in the forest in the winter time to purchase and pay for his farm equipment. Soon "taxes got high" and "times got hard", simply because the virgin soil fertility has been exhausted from the hills and now even with commercial fertilizers he is not able to make "ends meet." His forest area has so decreased that there is no longer a lucrative job in the woods all winter long. He struggles along year after year. He can not rebuild because his forest has depleted and he has no savings account. He is forced to sell out and move to the city. Since his buildings are worn out, and his land is so poor that capital would not be justified in renewing them, the land passes into the hands of a more prosperous neighbor or absent landlord. Thus slowly but surely our poorer class of land as well as the richer is being absorbed and joined to larger tracts.

If every land owner would maintain a reasonable part of his farm in woodland, the forest would furnish the owner his fuel every year, which would enable him to utilize all of his spare time during the winter months to a good profit. In time when his buildings need repair or replacement, he would saw and sell enough from his woods for this purpose. A woods on a farm is the safest "building association" known, and no farm should be without a forest.

LEARNS OF BROTHER SHE DID NOT KNOW EXISTED

Wabash, March 27—Miss Laveria Ort, adopted daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ort, Wabash, has been apprised of the existence of a brother she did not know existed and Edward Miller of Chicago has found the sister for whom he has been conducting a search for five years and who he had not seen in 18 years.

Learning of the brother's existence through Mrs. Earl McCoy of Peru, Mrs. Ort went to Chicago where she succeeded in locating Miller, who accompanied her back to Wabash where there was a joyous meeting with the sister. Miss Ort is a teacher in the public school at Rich Valley.

VOICE WITH A SMILE IS MATTER OF HEALTH

Chicago, March 27—The voice with a smile is the result of good health and pleasant surroundings, officials of the Illinois Bell Telephone Company declared, in commenting on twenty-years effort to protect the health of their "Hello Girls".

All telephone exchanges today have the most modern conveniences and sanitary working conditions for the comfort of the girl employees, but few have advanced to the point of a country home.

The Illinois company several years ago purchased a 48 acre tract near Warrenville, Ill., furnished it luxuriously and established the "Margaret Mackin" home.

It is maintained for girls convalescing from various ailments or suffering from infectious diseases.

Every outdoor sport known for winter and summer is available for the girls and hundreds of girls go to the "Home" each year to get the "smile" back in their voices.

$40,000,000 STEEL
PLANT IS IN PROJECT

Jones-Laughlin Company of Hammond Plans to Buy 282 Acres
From State and 39 Acres More

TO RESULT IN HIGHER LAND

(By United Press)
Hammond, March 27—A steel plant to cost $40,000,000 is in project here.

The Jones-Laughlin steel company is planning to buy 282 acres from the state and 159 acres from the East Chicago Land company.

For this purpose a law was passed by the legislature providing that if five property holders of Lake county file a petition favoring the sale of the public land to the steel plant, the state may sell it.

It was announced at the Auditor of State's office in Indianapolis that no petition has been filed yet, but in the near future it is expected as the proposed plant will mean increased land values for neighboring property and a boom in the population of Hammond.

The proposed plant has ideal railroad facilities. Already a canal 22 feet deep and 200 feet wide connects the fine art of rollin de bones, all the spirit with which dusky negroes play all the twists and turns of making on six ace, five deuce or four trey.

All this which many men spend a great part of their lives in mastering to an Allen county grand jury investigating a negro murder.

Not only the grand jurors but even the prosecuting attorneys professed ignorance of the great indoor sport, while they investigated the death of William Brown, negro, shot by Louis Dupee. So they had to practice—not the grand jurors, but the prosecuting attorneys.

The point at issue was which one of the two men was right in their dispute over the twirling of the cubes.
Not only practice, but the expert testimony of another young negro awaiting trial was called in the investigation.

TRADING BLOOD FOR EDUCATION

Philadelphia, March 27 (United Press).—Many medical students at the University of Pennsylvania are selling their blood to help pay for their education.

Turning their blood into gold is accomplished by submitting to blood transfusion operations. The usual fee to the bloodgiver ranges from $25 to $100.

The practice is limited to almost exclusive medical students and in one medical fraternity half the members are now selling their blood. Other undergraduates do not seem willing to run the risk.

The pure blood of qualified volunteers is tapped for the benefit of patients whose life depends on an emergency supply. Not every student is permitted to submit to such an operation. His blood must meet certain rigid requirements and there must be an abundance of red corpuscles.

"Selling blood has been a practice among future doctors at Penn for some time," according to Dr.

L. L. Gardner of the University Hospital.

"It may be an easy way to make money, but we do not encourage the practice. The medical students do it of their own accord and in fact some of them need the money so badly that they insist on sacrificing their blood for transfusion purposes. We now limit each volunteer to three operations a year."

If you are a constipation victim you need Bran that is ALL BRAN

Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, is so delicious and inviting that thousands of families use it constantly to make enticing bakery batches, such as bran muffins, pancakes, raisin bread, etc.; they eat it as a cereal, and many sprinkle it on their favorite cereal, its nut-like flavor having a fine appeal.

Many more thousands of people eat Kellogg's Bran every day of their lives because it has permanently relieved them of constipation and the dangers of dreaded diseases that constipation leads to. If you are suffering with constipation you need ALL BRAN—Kellogg's Bran—with its permanent corrective qualities. Foods that are part bran can never give the desired relief because they do not contain sufficient of the elements that Kellogg's Bran naturally contains.

When you know that constipation heads directly to Bright's disease and other ailments, there is no time to be lost in experimenting. Kellogg's Bran, delicious in its patented cooked and krumbled form, becomes an immediate necessity. If it is eaten regularly (two tablespoons daily; in chronic cases with each meal)—it will relieve constipation permanently! Your physician will recommend Kellogg's Bran. It will free you from proprietary pills and cathartics which are as system-racking and almost as dangerous to health as constipation itself!

Serve Kellogg's Bran regularly.
Watch the health of your entire family improve. It is wonderful for children.
Kellogg recipes are printed on each package. All grocers sell Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled.

MRS. G. W. HALL SICK FOR YEARS

Wants Women to Know How She Was Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Lima, Ohio. — "Indeed, your medicine is all you say it is! I had very severe troubles such as women often have, and could do no heavy work. I was sick for several years, and from reading your ads. I finally decided to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I am now doing my own washing, which I haven't done for several years, and can walk long distances without those dragging pains and weak feelings. The Vegetable Compound is fine, and I never forget to say a good word for it to other women when they say they need something." — Mrs. G. W. HALL, 539 Hazel Avenue, Lima, Ohio.

There are many women who find their household duties almost unbearable owing to some weakness or derangement. The trouble may be slight, yet cause such annoying symptoms as dragging pains, weakness and a run-down feeling. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a splendid medicine for such conditions. It has in many cases relieved those symptoms by removing the cause of them. Mrs. Hall's experience is but one of many.

KEEP GUARD FIT IS KEYNOTE OF APPEAL

Good Personnel, Adequate Armory
And Continuous and Staunch Moral Support Held Necessary

ARTICLE BY MAJOR WILLIAMS

Discussion of Subject Sanctioned by Adjutant General Smith, Who
Mails Copy to Local Company

"Keep the Guard Fit" is the keynote to an article on the National Guard written by Major Kenneth P. Williams of Bloomington, showing how citizens of every community can co-operate to make this branch of the national defense better and stronger.

The discussion of the question has the unqualified sanction of Harry B. Smith, adjutant general of Indiana, and he has mailed copies of it to all Guard units in the state, one of which has been received here by Will B. Brann, captain of Company C, 151st Infantry, of this city.

Major Williams points out that to make a good Guard unit, three things are necessary—a good personnel, an adequate armory and continuous and staunch moral support, in the following:

It is well known that in 1917 the country was in no way prepared for the war into which it entered. In spite of the universal assertion made at that time that such a condition must not be allowed to exist again, there is a drift towards the same situation. The same indifference, the same lack of responsibility, on the part of many citizens, is apparent. The country is ineradicably opposed to universal training in peace times; it is equally opposed to any but the smallest Regular Army. There is left as a fundamental part of the defense system the National Guard. Having decided to put reliance on the Guard it rests with the citizens of the country to make it fit for the great responsibility that they have put upon it. The War Department alone cannot make the National Guard effective, though it is devoting great effort to achieve all it can. It is a problem for the citizen, the community, and the State.

To make a good National Guard Unit, one in which a city can take pride, three things are necessary—a good personnel, an adequate armory and continuous and staunch moral support.

The Guard wants good, clean, energetic young men. To be a good Guardsman a man must be willing to make some sacrifices; he must have a sense of obligation, a feeling of responsibility, and a conviction of his time. He must be loyal and willing to do work for which the compensation is not the governing motive. It has never been contended that such impulses were not laudable ones; and those persons to whom we owe much have been guided by such a spirit. But, excepting periods of great emergency, many persons give little unremunerated service to the country, and seem to feel that such service while necessary, is the exclusive duty of another. Their dollars and their time are to be devoted to their own advantage or their own enjoyment alone.

It is not contended that military drill is as entertaining or as attractive as shows or loafing, but service is not measured by enjoyment. The service rendered, however, is not without some remuneration. A member of the National Guard can earn $60.00 a year for his weekly drills, from the standpoint of time, the rate of pay being perhaps greater than that of his regular occupation. But no man will make the best soldier who is attracted only by the pay he can receive.

The officers of the Guard believe that it is the duty of the community to help find those young men who do have some of the spirit of devotion and service that has been described. They should come from all levels of society, for there is nothing democratic or very ennobling in a condition where the well-to-do allow peace-time military service to be the exclusive concern of those less fortunately situated. The National Guard Units ask that you do all that you can to put into its ranks some one in whose willingness to serve you can take pride. It wants you not only to approve of what it is trying to do, but to help, for you as a citizen are a beneficiary of all parts of the system of National Defense.

A proper armory with some club and athletic features is necessary for a good organization. An adequate armory, if partly supported by the community, would meet a great need.

Before the war the Guard struggled against great odds, and was kept alive for the service of the entire country of the local sacrificing efforts of a few, who were not discouraged by the apathy and even reproaches of fellow citizens. In spite of such treatment from a public which has always been ever ready to call on the Guard when they became a bit frightened, the Guard rendered service in the war that they should be appreciated by every one who gives a moment of thought to anything besides his own affairs. Of the first 75,000 men who went over seas, 50,000 were Guardsmen. Two of the Divisions in the First American Corps were Regular Army, the other two were National Guard. Of the nine divisions that has casualties exceeding $10,000, four were National Guard, four Regular Army and one National Army. Two American Guard Divisions are credited by a well-known British writer for leading the advance and breaking the Hindenburg Line at Bellecourt, its strongest point.

The best way for you to show your appreciation for such service is by helping keep the Guard fit. Tell some young man that he has a peace time responsibility, and that the country needs a little service at all time. And if you are an employer of any Guardsmen try to arrange to let them off for their two weeks at camp in summer.

View of the small wooden bust of Queen Nefertiti, the mother-in-law of King Tut-Ankh-Amen, which has just been received at the Carnegie Museum in Pittsburgh. Tut married Amon-Sc-Amkh, the old Queen's daughter, and thus made his path clear to the throne of Egypt. The statue was found at Tell-el-Amarna, the city that was abandoned by Tut-Ankh-Aton when he overthrew the God of the Sun, or Aton, and re-established the prestige of God Amon, changing his name to Tut-Ankh-Amon, or "the Glory of Amon"—the name now more commonly spelled Tut-Ankh-Amen.

DAUGHERTY'S SON TO BE QUESTIONED

Draper Daugherty, Son of Attorney General, Will be Consulted in King Murder Mystery

SAID TO HAVE KNOWN GIRL

Also Received Threatening Word From Blackmailers, According to Newspaper Reports

(By United Press)

New York, March 27—Assistant District Attorney Fred Pecora stated today he will summon to his office, in connection with investigation with the murder of Dorothy King, Draper M. Daugherty, son of Harry M. Daugherty, attorney general of the United States.

The same gang of blackmailers that killed Miss King is reported to have threatened Daugherty, although he had done nothing which he feared to have revealed. They told him they would expose his friendship for the girl, according to statements attributed to him in New York papers today. Daugherty, having nothing to conceal, defied them and offered to give the authorities any information in his possession.

"My only information concerning Mr. Draper Daugherty's connection with the case comes from the press," Pecora said, "but if I can locate Mr. Daugherty today, I shall most certainly ask him to come to my office for a conference."

At the Elks Club, Daugherty's New York address, the attorney general's son could not be found.

Interest in the case which had changed about the person of J. Kearsley Mitchell, Philadelphia millionaire friend and patron of the murdered artist's model, widened today to include the meeting between Daugherty and the district attorney.

Pecora has no official knowledge that Daugherty was even acquainted with the girl. All he has to go on are published articles and a purported interview with the attorney general's son in which he is quoted as saying frankly that he knew Miss King, that their friendship was entirely proper in every respect, and that he would be glad to tell the authorities anything that would help them.

POINTS TO VALUE OF SAFETY RULES

Ross Luellen, Safety Engineer Of Union Traction Co., Shows Results From Following Them

SPEAKS TO THE ROTARY CLUB

Ross Luellen of Anderson, safety engineer for the Union Traction Co., the author of Safety Sam, a feature in the Daily Republican, spoke briefly of safety methods and their value before the Rotary club at the noon luncheon today.

The club entertained several other guests, including Harold McClannahan of New York City, formerly of Rushville; A. H. Sutton of Chicago university, former Rushville high school basketball coach; Paul Binford of Greenfield and Gerald P. Bonney of Boston, singing evangelist. Mr. McClannahan who is an accomplished pianist played two numbers and was vigorously applauded.

Mr. Luellen spoke of the accomplishments of the safety organization of the Union Traction company which with more than 400 miles of track, both city and interurban, had not killed a single passenger in more than four years, through carelessness of the company's employees. During that time, he said, the cars had covered more than 30 million miles and had hauled more than 60 million passengers.

Mr. Luellen spoke of the care that should be exercised at rail crossings and pointed out that the newspaper story of an accident told only the first chapter of the long trail of trouble that follows in the wake of a mishap that might have been avoided.

DEATH OF ACTRESS MOURNED BY WORLD

France And All Countries Honor Death Of Madame Bernhardt, Greatest Of All Actresses

By WEBB MILLER
(U. P. Staff Correspondent)

Paris, March 27.—A mourning France honored Sarah Bernhardt in death today as it had honored her in life. And the entire world joined in to do homage.

In the strange death chamber at her home on Boulevard Pereire, Bernhardt's body lay peacefully, her face relaxed and an expression of serene beauty on her face. Throughout the night, her son, grand children and most intimate relatives kept the death watch.

Outside the street great crowds gathered, staring in sympathy at the death watch.

Safety Sam, Minus Habitment of Corner Cop, Comes to Town for Brief Sojourn

Ross Luellen Of Anderson, Safety Engineer Of Union Traction Company, Speaks At Grade Buildings And High School Emphasizing The Importance Of Being Careful.

Safety Sam, minus the habitment usually associated with him by readers of the Daily Republican, came to town today for a brief stay, to talk the doctrine of safety. First to school children and grown folk alike.

Safety Sam, off the pages of a newspaper, is just plain Ross Luellen, ordinary citizen, with a title of safety engineer. He sits in an office building at Anderson, Ind., a good part of the time, trying to devise means and ways of saving a life here and a life there. His business is safety engineer for the Union Traction company, with its principal offices at Anderson.

Safety Sam spoke to all the grade building pupils this morning and wound up with a more extended address to the high school, and at noon spoke to the Rotary club at the regular noon luncheon at the Social club.

Safety Sam spoke in the language of the grammar grade pupils when he faced them as they assembled, each in the halls of their own buildings.

After the little folks had taken their places in the hall, flanked by their teachers, each with expectant, upturned faces (the scene was repeated at the Havens, Jackson and Graham Annex buildings) J. H. Scholl, superintendent of schools, asked the pupils how many remembered seeing in the Daily Republican each evening, the picture of a policeman with his right hand raised in warning. In every case, the response was instantaneous, and when Supt. Scholl asked them if they wished to see Safety Sam, there was a quick shaking of hands and nodding of heads.

JAY OF CROSS IS THE WAY TO GOD

Also The Way To Peace, Salvation And Life Eternal. The Rev. H. W. Hargett Points Out

SUNDAY SCHOOL REPRESENTED

Special Music At St. Paul's Church Tonight And Milroy Quartet Will Sing Wednesday Night

A large representation of the Sunday School teachers and their classes attended the revival services at the St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal church Monday evening, and aided greatly in the congregational singing preceding the sermon.

The pastor, the Rev. H. W. Hargett took for his text "A New and Living Way" found in Hebrew 10:20. It was the "way of the cross" of which the writer was speaking. He believed that way to be the way to God, to peace and to salvation and life eternal.

There will be special music tonight at the services and the subject for the pastor's talk will be "The Offense of the Cross." On Wednesday night a quartet from Milroy will furnish a vocal number.

"Jesus, when he was a small boy one day extended his arms, and the shadow of the cross was cast upon the ground before him. His mother saw it and her heart was sad because of his coming suffering but Jesus saw it and his heart rejoiced to go in the way of the cross," the speaker said in the beginning of his sermon.

IMPOSSIBILITIES IN RELIGION SEEN

The Rev. Gibson Wilson Enumerates Things That Can't be Done in Inherit Kingdom of God

Sunday School Classes are Represented and Many Members of School Join Church at Close

"Impossibilities in Religion" was the subject dealt with by the Rev. Gibson Wilson at the pre-Easter services at the First Presbyterian church Monday evening, the pastor pointing out the things that are impossible if there is a desire to be saved.

He said that it was impossible to enter heaven without being born again; to be saved without a personal faith in God; to believe and not be saved; to be saved after this life; to neglect the means of salvation in this life and escape the punishment of sin; for God to be false.

"Our conclusion is," he said in closing, "that it is folly not to give attention to our soul's salvation now."

Gerald Bonney, singing evangelist, led the congregation in a song service and sang one solo. Each class in the Sunday school was represented and selected a song to be sung during the service. Several children in the Sunday school joined church at the close of the service.

The Rev. Mr. Wilson spoke in part as follows:

Some people have formed their own idea of the conditions of entrance into heaven without a study of the scripture. They think that all they have to do is to present themselves at heaven's door and they will be admitted.

Jesus said: "Except one be born anew he can not see the kingdom of God." We have been born physically, but a new life is to come into us which is from above, heavenly. It is not of earth. Only the spirit of God can create that new life within us, when we have determined to forsake our sin. It doesn't require learning or culture or social position, but a (Continued from Page 3)

DEFENDANT'S WIFE GAVE OUT SIGNALS

ACTIONS IN COURT ROOM

Grand Rapids, Mich., March 27.—A motion to have Mrs. Benjamin F. Purnell, the "wife of King Benjamin," of the House of David, excluded from the court-room during the hearing of the $80,000 damage suit brought against her husband, will be offered by counsel for the plaintiff at today's session it was learned.

Walter M. Nelson attorney for the plaintiffs, John W. Hansel and his wife of Nashville, Tenn., declared he had discovered a system of signalling going on between Mrs. Purnell and defense witnesses kept outside of the court room.

Nelson said he observed signalling between Mrs. Purnell and defense witnesses while Quinto Rosetta of Columbus, Ohio was on the stand. Rosetta testified that the damage suit was a deliberate attempt on the part of the Hansels to wreck the religious organization by frame up testimony.

He denied knowledge of several letters, said to have been written by him to his wife, Leona, and introduced by the plaintiffs.

Leona also denied knowledge of the letters when she was placed on the stand. The two witnesses were then instructed to write their names on a slip of paper which he offered by the plaintiffs as an exhibit.

The deceased has been ill for three years, suffering from tuberculosis, and expired Sunday morning. Besides the husband, the deceased is survived by a daughter, Virginia Arbuckle, and her mother, Mrs. Mary Pattison at whose home she expired in Manila.

The deceased was a native of Manila, and was well known in the community, and during her lifetime was an active worker in the Methodist church of that town.

MAY PREVENT CASE ON FOR WEDNESDAY

Suit for Support Money is Filed by Eliza G. Meyers Against John Meyers

The law suit over a claim against an estate, with Minnie Means McKean plaintiff and the estate of Milton Huntington represented as defendants, was in the second day of its trial today and threatened to overlap on Wednesday, disrupting the court calendar for this week.

The suit which is in the nature of a claim, demanding $1,698.39 judgment, was sent here from Hancock county, and involves people in the vicinity of New Palestine, where the deceased was a former veterinary surgeon. Considerable interest was shown in the case as it progressed yesterday and today, and many witnesses were used by each side.

The defense today took their fling at the evidence, and little doubt was expressed as to whether the case could be completed by tonight.

In the event that the arguments cannot be heard, the case of the State against Ernest Pitman charged with larceny and scheduled for Wednesday, will have to be postponed until a later date.

Pitman is charged with stealing mink hides from Oneal Brothers in this city, and was arrested in January by members of the New Salem Horse Thief Detective Association, who are said to have traced him over into Fayette county and arrested him at his home near Orange. He has been at liberty on bond since his arrest.

One new suit was filed today, the complaint being by Eliza G. Meyers against John Meyers, and a suit for support money. The plaintiff alleges that the defendant has abandoned her without cause, and is living apart from her, failing to provide. He is said to be capable of earning good wages, and the complaint demands $25 a month allowance.

Several court cases are set for trial this week, and the jury may be used again following the trial (Continued on Page Six)

FAILS TO CONNECT THE TWO

State Unable To Hook Up Russian And American Reds

St. Joseph, Mich., March 27.—Attorneys prosecuting William Z. Foster failed today in efforts through testimony of defense witnesses to connect communists in Russia with those of America.

C. W. Gore cross-examined Charles E. Ruthenberg, star witness for Foster, on trial for alleged violation of Michigan's syndicalist law, and asked:

"Is it not true that B. R. Ernsten attended the Bridgman Communist convention as an official representative of the Red Trade Union Internationale of Moscow?" This brought a denial.

WHISKEY USED IN AUTO RADIATORS

(By United Press)

Indianapolis, Ind., March 27.—Confiscated whiskey was poured into the radiators of automobiles belonging to officials of Gary and Lake county to keep them from freezing, Clyde Hunter, former prosecuting attorney and a defendant, testified today in the trial of Lake County booze conspiracy case.

Hunter was asked regarding disposition of two cases of whiskey, which he said were left on his porch without his knowledge.

"I poured it into gasoline and turpentine cans and used it in the radiator of my automobile," he said. "My natural inclination is to put things to a practical use."

"Everybody in the City Hall used contraband liquor in their radiators."

The booze was left in Hunter's home by Dan Melloy, former constable. Melloy testified early in the case. Hunter said he did not know the man who delivered the whiskey.

Hunter denied testimony of Melloy that money received from bonds had been divided with Hunter and that confiscated whiskey was turned over to him. Hunter said he never used intoxicants.

Dwight Kinder, present prosecutor, who is also a defendant, denied testimony of Phillip Ukman, government star witness, who said Kinder beat him into unconsciousness with a black jack in the presence of Mayor Roswell Johnson, also a defendant, because he refused to sign a statement implicating federal prohibition agents in a black mail scheme against bootleggers.

Kinder on severe cross examination said he had never taken any steps to abate places where booze was sold. He said he knew there was an abatement statute, but he was not entirely familiar with it.

District Attorney Homer Elliott read statements purported to have been made by the Lake county grand jury condemning officials for failure to enforce prohibition. Kinder said (Continued on Page Six)

MRS. BARR QUILTS AS STATE WAR MOTHER

(By United Press)

Indianapolis, Ind., March 27.—Indiana War Mothers were divided today over the question of the Ladies Ku Klux Klan, a secret organization. The resignation of the Rev. Daisy Douglas Barr, president of the War Mothers, was accepted at a meeting of the executive committee, last night.

According to Mrs. Alice M. French gold star mother and one of the founders of the organization, declared members had strongly disapproved to Mrs. Barr's reported efforts in organizing "a woman's Ku Klux Klan" while she retained the office of president.

The letter of resignation submitted at the meeting said that Mrs. Barr's evangelical duties, and her plans for a trip abroad this summer made it impossible for her to give the proper attention to the Indiana War Mothers.

"The majority of the members are not in favor of a woman's secret organization to correspond to the Ku Klux Klan and at any rate do not favor Mrs. Barr's using our time and our organization for this purpose," Mrs. French said.

windows of all the great buildings were lighted to form a cross, the others were kept dark. As Constantine the Roman emperor once saw a blazing cross in the sky, so over a million of people saw the cross in the largest buildings of Philadelphia. It suggested to them as to Constantine what the right way would conquer. The way of the cross became a great white way suggestive of the way to a nation's peace and prosperity.

"The way of the cross is the way to international peace." The nations have gone into a closed passage and have come to the dead end of things. The way of the cross is the way out. Materialism has sent us spinning off the main track, and only the Christ of the cross can get us on the way of safety and peace.

The pastor then pointed out the way of safety to the individual. "Many are lost in the labyrinth of sin. In the grounds of Hampton Court, twelve miles from London is the Labyrinth of Henry, the Eighth, which is over eight hundred years old. People, who enter the labyrinth can easily find their way out and many others can not. Often they become confused, wander in circles, come up against the ends of the path, turn back and travel miles and miles before they look up to a tower with a cross, where stands one ready to show them the way out. If it were not for the guide, some might never find the way out. People used often to sing Where Is My Wandering Boy. Many have wandered away and never look up to the one who is able to point them to the path of safety. In the War Cry, there is a pathetic page, where fathers and mothers write the names of the children, who have wandered away, lost in sin and are lost to father and mother, who once bent over them in love, but now they are lost to God.

"God planned that every child should be cared for. Every human soul is a possible child of God and when he turns his feet from the Father's house and his heart away from his shepherd, his business begins to fall and sin fills his heart. In order that they might find the way home God sent Christ into the world. It is the way of the cross that leads home."

The Rev. Mr. Hargrett closed his sermon by describing the way which leads to another life. "The father one travels along the way, the more thoroughly alive he becomes. If you could find a road where the people would lose all their rheumatism, all stiffness of joints, all illness, all weariness, it would be very popular. The way of the cross is like that way, a way to fuller life, a way to life more abundant, a life that grows more beautiful day by day. Those who have been speeding on the way for half a century will tell you that life grows fuller and more beautiful, as the years pass."

Ventilation Most Difficult Problem In The Building Of Poultry Houses

Many varying opinions are expressed on poultry house construction and all extremes are indulged in from the coop that has no ventilation and is almost air tight to the extreme open type that is ventilated as much as possible.

The most serious difficulty is as-

ter of considerable argument. The best results are usually obtained, however, in a house where there are at least four square feet floor space for each fowl; three square feet will answer for Leghorns and other varieties of the Mediterranean fowls provided the house is kept perfectly clean, except perhaps the Minorcas, which will need as much space as the American varieties. Large fowls like the Asiatics have about five square feet of floor space per head.

AN IDEAL POULTRY HOUSE

ually to secure satisfactory ventilation. Far too many poultry houses are built to take care of 50 to 100 hens and are used for three or four times that number.

Although it is not always possible or advisable to build a poultry house to fit all future requirements, care should be taken to provide for increases or decreases in the flock. Over-crowding of the flock in the winter time often brings unsatisfactory results and means considerable loss.

Most farms can support a flock of 300 to 400 hens economically. Poultry houses, however, are often based on a 100-hen unit, which is an economical unit to use, as it takes very little more to care for that many hens than for half that number.

Square Feet Per Fowl
The number of square feet floor space necessary for fowls is a mat-

Where the house is especially well ventilated the fowls may be crowded somewhat more with safety.

The smaller the unit is made, the more space proportionately will have to be allowed for each fowl, that is, a house with 400 square feet floor space will provide ample room for 100 fowls, yet only 200 square feet floor space will not be as satisfactory for fifty fowls.

When the house is too small for the flock, special care must be taken to keep the walls and floor exceptionally clean.

Poultry houses are made of all kinds of material, but more are made of frame construction than any other kind, partly because such a house can be easily erected by the average person and partly because wood provides a good insulation against the weather.

SWEET PEAS NEED EARLY START

Sweet peas must be sown just as early as you can, if there is to be any certainty of a bountiful supply of their fascinatingly beautiful and fragrant blooms. In the Middle West it is now customary to put the seed in the ground on St. Patrick's day, if the soil can be worked, planting deeply in a trench which is then matted or mulched until the seeds begin to germinate, and filled in as the plants grow.

The one great secret of sweet pea growing is to provide a cool root run, and deep planting of the roots is necessary to give this condition. Of course, the richest and mellowest of soil is also essential. Sweet peas are such obliging annuals, giving a fair show of bloom often under adverse conditions, that they are seldom seen grown at their best, which means six foot vines.

which to inoculate the sweet pea seeds. This assists greatly in developing an early and vigorous growth. Too thick planting is the great fault with most growers. The use of individual paper pots to start the plants growing will go a long way to get away from this trouble, as with the seedlings six inches or more in height before they are set into the ground it becomes impossible to crowd them into the soil, as is almost invariably done when sown where they are to bloom. Expert sweet pea growers say that six inches apart is the minimum distance.

When started in individual pots a supply of sticks or twigs must be ready to give them for support, or the plants will become a mass impossible of separation when it comes time to place them in the open ground. The seedlings must be given a cool situation in the house.

Some people do not like the blood covenant way of salvation, but it is impossible to be saved without the shedding of blood. Heb. 9:22, "Without the shedding of blood there is no remission."

It was the blood sprinkled on the door posts of the people of God in Egypt that saved Israel.

The life of the flesh is in the blood and Jesus gave his life blood on the altar for our atonement.

It is impossible to be saved without a personal faith in the living God whom we acknowledge and serve.

A faith in him that leads to the forsaking of sin and yielding obedient service to him leads to salvation and eternal life. Without this faith there is left for us only our eternal destruction. Mk. 16:16.

It is impossible for us to believe and not be saved.

A belief on the Lord Jesus Christ as our own personal Savior whom we yield a living obedience gives us salvation. This is Paul's assurance to the jailor. Acts 16:31.

It is impossible to be saved after this life.

Scripture makes it very plain that there is a great separation between the godly and the ungodly after this life. There is no passing from one place to the other. The separation is complete and eternal. There is no infidelity or skepticism after this life. The truth is fully realized. Those who have lived away from God in this life are eternally separated from him in the next. Read Luke 16:26.

It is impossible for those who neglect the means of salvation in this life to escape the punishment of their sin.

The soul that is dead in sin can not enter heaven. The sin of neglect has deprived many persons of years of happy, useful Christian service and has defeated the plan of God for many lives. We have been placed here to honor God and if our life has been spent in the service of the devil we must expect to dwell with the master whom we have served.

The sin of neglect has robbed many of the joys of heaven. Heb. 2:3 It is impossible for God to be false. Hebrews 6:13.

Upon this basis we can deal with certainties. His promise is immutable, so is his oath. Neither can be moved.

The Christian's hope is fastened to an anchor that is "unmovable." That anchor is in the heavens. The divine oath and promise of God have been confirmed by the cross of Jesus and sealed by his resurrection and ascension.

Our conclusion is that it is folly not to give attention to our soul's salvation now. When our joys are eternal why live away from God and in sin? What good reason can you give?

FRANK WILSON & CO.

At The Mystic Today

All of the Harry Carey productions of the past, among which have been some mighty good ones, are excellently by his latest production—his second under the auspices of the Film Booking Offices of America. It is called "Good Men and True," is founded on the story of the same name by Eugene Manlove Rhodes and was revealed for the first time at the Mystic Theatre yesterday and will be seen again today.

"Good Men and True," gives Harry Carey a role that fits him as snugly as a rubber skull cap fits the head of a bather. It is a part that he can play with far better effect than any other star now on the screen. He is a cowboy, of course, but this time is a candidate for sheriff, backed by the better element of a Western town and opposed by a vicious faction that would throw the community open to the forces of evil.

The love interest is furnished by his admiration of the daughter of his chief political backer. The girl is Vola Vale, that always charming brunette who formerly played opposite Wm S. Hart in his Western dramas and won thousands of admirers the country over. The romantic element is one of the outstanding factors that make for the extraordinary success of this latest Harry Carey vehicle.

The plot against his candidacy is particularly vicious. His opponents stoop to the lowest methods to overthrow him. But on election day the tide turns in favor of J. Wesley Pringle—Harry Carey's screen name in this instance—and he comes through with flying colors—the new Sheriff! There is one scene of exceptional novelty, in which drama and comedy is delightfully mingled.

"The Third Alarm"—Coming

Fire scenes that dwarf any others ever thrown upon a screen, lend many keen thrills to Emory Johnson's stupendous fireman's melodrama "The Third Alarm" coming to the Princess Wednesday and Thursday. There have been many fire scenes produced in the annals of screendom but none has matched the conflagration portrayed in "The Third Alarm." Credit for this amazing achievement should go to Emory Johnson, the producer, and his technical staff who toiled for months for their realism.

The fire scene develops in this fashion. June Rutherford, daughter of a wealthy surgeon and sweetheart of Johnny McDowell, member of the fire department, is trapped by flames in her apartment on the top floor of a lofty structure. Smoke is seeping through the crevices of the doors into her rooms and the hideous crackling of the flames in the corridors strikes terror to her heart. She goes to the balcony, high above the street and is seen outlined against the smoking and flaming walls of the building, when the searchlight plays upon her.

Rescuers lose no time in reaching the stricken girl. Johnnie Walker, in the role of Johnny McDowell, leaps up the scaling ladder and after a perilous climb reaches the girl. Flames are leaping all about them and smoke chokes up their lungs. But the decent begins. As they are about to reach the ground a huge safe in one of the upper stories of the building crashes to earth, carrying tons of blazing debris with it to the bottom. The boy and the girl are caught underneath the safe and are saved when an old and discarded fire horse, with rope about its neck pulls and hauls the safe until he drags it out and frees the prisoners.

These scenes are carried forth with unusual speed and dramatic power and furnish one of the greatest thrills ever developed on the screen. The collapse of the towering walls of the building its gradual crumbling in the clutches of the roaring flames, also form scenes of stark realism.

MERCY ASSURED—He that covereth his sins shall not prosper; but whose confesseth and forsaketh them shall have mercy.—Proverbs 28: 13.

The Spring "Clean Up"

From some source in the community there always is coming the call for a "Clean Up Day" or a "Clean Up Week."

Whoever makes the suggestion will mean well, but he or she really would help the community more by starting the slogan: "Don't call it a 'day' nor a 'week.' Let's have a real campaign."

A "day" is merely pathetic, and a "week" is hardly long enough to make even a fair start.

That's the first essential of any successful community effort in such work.

The second essential is to publicly commit to the new order of things whatever is cleaned up. For example converting the unsightly dump into a playground, or painting the vacant lot with the green of grass and shrubbery or a thrift garden—but, however it be done, "clothe it in the garb of righteousness," and thereafter its cleanliness and orderliness will be respected by everybody.

Those who have experience in clean up campaigns and the reports of communities that now conduct some such work, testify both to the futility of community clean up efforts that are merely a "lick and a promise and the utility and effectiveness of the real campaign, well planned and properly conducted.

These facts are generally realized most of all by those city officials who look after the community cleanliness and health, and generally with inadequate budgets. It is impossible for them to co-ordinate their efforts with those of every household or within a six-day period, though the public co-operation that can be enlisted in a real campaign is invaluable to them, and to the community in the visible and lasting results secured and in the sense of personal responsibility for continuous care taking in these matters that is inculcated by such a campaign.

To "Get the habit" is the thing, and that never can be done in the annual bath of a "day" or a "week."

European Wreck

"Europe is gone," say many American observers. "Europe is ruined and wrecked. European civilization is doomed." Some Englishmen echo the doleful verdict, though they usually make an exception of England.

Assuming that this is true, what does it mean? Surely not, as is sometimes suggested, that Europe is going to revert at once to barbarism or that its inhabitants are going to be destroyed immediately by war, hunger and pestilence, leaving the continent a desolation.

There are no such sudden catastrophes except those of nature. History does not record the quick decline or destruction of any great civilization. It took nearly as long for Rome to decline as for it to rise to power in the first place. As far as can be seen, all great historic changes come slowly as to be almost imperceptible to the onlookers.

This it may be supposed, is the way European decline will come, if the time has arrived. Three or four hundred million civilized people, including several great races, are not going to be wiped out before our eyes. But there may be, as a result of the war, such a thinning of good stock, such a draining of physical and mental vigor, that nations hitherto great may have lost their old vitality. They may have no more power to create, to construct, to forge ahead, as they used to. They may not be able to "come back." They may continue sliding down hill, in growing weakness, turning into indifferent, decadent races, of which many examples are to be seen today in various parts of the world.

But to make itself perfectly plain, such decadence may take a century or two. And it may not be true. Modern Europe may yet come back, and do great things.

CHANGING THE LETTERING OF THE TYPEWRITER KEYBOARD

A recent publication of a monthly journal of wide circulation advocates the changing of the order of lettering now in general use by manufacturers of all the leading makes of typewriters. The change is urged on the ground that the present order was adopted before the advent of the "touch system" of typewriting, and that the work is not evenly distributed among the fingers of each hand.

There are interesting changes in the new keyboard, that would seem to recommend it over the one now in use; but the mere suggestion of making a change, is like asking the typist to unlearn what has cost months of hard practice to master.

Changing the keyboard of the typewriter, is a subject for an international court of appeals. It is like changing the calendar: a most desirable thing from many points of view, but hard to bring into practice. Even the slight changes that are covered by special patents, and belong to separate typewriter manufacturer make the changing from one machine to another a very difficult operation, and a few days are required to bring about efficiency on a different machine from the one the operator has been accustomed to.

It is doubtful if the change would be of value except to those who have never learned the "touch system" on the present key-board; for the reason that there is a nerve control over the fingers which becomes automatic, and is almost out from under the control of the will power of the operator. This would necessitate the building of two patterns of machines for a number of years; in order to accommodate the beginners and those who had learned the old keyboard. This would leave the question with the pupil and teacher, and there would be no assurance which keyboard would become the most popular.

INDIANA MAY LOSE WRESTLING COACH

NEWS JUST LEAKED OUT

Match May Be Arranged Soon Between Reynolds And Kallio,
Minneapolis Champion

By HEZE CLARK
(Written for United Press)

Indianapolis, Ind., March 27.—Indiana University alumni were much surprised to see in a recent issue of the wrestling news, that Indiana would probably lose its wrestling coach Jack Reynolds, according to the story published under Walter Keegan, at Cleveland, announced he would probably make his headquarters in Cleveland, and that he had completed a deal to instruct the Ohio state University grapplers next year at Columbus, O. No announcement has been made previously by the Ohio athletic authorities that Al Haft would not remain at that college as coach of wrestlers. The statement of Reynolds made in Cleveland, brought forth a denial that he had been engaged at Ohio state or that Haft would remain with that school.

The shifting of Reynolds activities from Indianapolis to Cleveland however indicate that he might not be at Bloomington next winter.

William Ellis of Columbus, O., exploded a bomb shell among the wrestling fraternity of Indianapolis and other Indiana cities where the mat game has thrived during the past two years. Ellis, represents Gus Kallio, welterweight wrestler of Minneapolis, Minn. If his present plans carry out, it may be that Hoosier mat fans will see him matched with Jack Reynolds in the near future.

Firpo Has Big Chance

(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, March 27.—Where the path leads for Luis Firpo, the Argentine giant, depends largely on where Luis chooses to turn his steps. Firpo has more natural fighting ability and he is the best prospect of any of the young heavyweights who have come to the front since Dempsey got his start.

Firpo has everything promising, but he has one of the Latin temperaments that may spoil what looks like sure fame and fortune for him.

Because some of his fellow countrymen in South America warned him to beware of scheming Americans, Firpo is suspicious of everyone. He looks upon all who approach him as connivers who are out to do him harm.

Even with Jimmy De Forest, who trained him for a few weeks when he first came to this country and who handled him in the Brennan fight, he is restrained and wary and it does not permit him to get the full value out of the excellent education that De Forest is capable of giving him.

As an example of the peculiar type of a pupil that Firpo is, De Forest tells the story that when he was working with him last year, one of Firpo's friends went to him and told him that De Forest was Dempsey's trainer and that Jimmy would teach him wrong, so that Dempsey could beat him. Firpo became suspicious and quit De Forest.

If he continues to suspect, every one he will make the way harder, although it might not necessarily keep him from winning the title. De Forest is about the one trainer in the country who knows enough to make a great fighter out of the South American.

Nearly all of the veterans who have looked over the South American find in him a striking resemblance to Jim Jeffries when he first came out. Tex Rickard, who is one of the most enthusiastic boosters of Firpo, says that he really is another Jim and that he will be the next champion.

The most impressive things about Firpo are his ability to take punishment and his tremendous hitting power. He also has a great fighting heart—and little else is needed.

Firpo must learn to box a little, but that is only a minor detail. His left hand also needs attention, but that also can come with training.

It seems now that Dempsey has only two men as real contenders for the title—Firpo and Harry Wills.

DIXIE DUST

New Orleans—Six rookies have been picked by Miller Huggins to start the season on the bench with the New York Yanks.

San Antonio—After giving a private workout to Jack Bentley, the $65,000 Baltimore pitcher, Manager McGraw said he felt confident that he would make the grade with the Giants.

Clearwater, Fla.—The Mobile Southern Association club probably will get the first crack at the discarded rookies of the Brooklyn Robins.

Athens, Ga.—The Detroit Tigers suffered defeat yesterday at the hands of the Rochester International League team 5 to 3.

Orlando, Fla.—Three Reds, Staley, Reisenberg and Rodriguez—will be left with the Orlando team when the Reds break camp here Wednesday night.

Lakeland, Fla.—The Indians will be in Clearwater today for another fling at the Brooklyn club. During the 7-2 beating the Indians administered to the Phillies, Umpire Holmes chased Manager Art Fletcher of Phillies' forrody conduct. Now Fletcher says he will not permit Holmes to umpire the game at Leesburg. Judge Landis backs Holmes.

Tampa—Sam Rice, veteran Washington outfielder has found his batting eye early this season. He has been slugging for an average of well over .400 in the practice games thus far.

Leesburg, Fla.—The Phillies suffered their fourth straight defeat at the hands of major league opponents when the Indians swamped them 7-2.

Montgomery, Ala.—The Athletics A and B teams bunched together here today in an attempt to defeat Mobile. Then the Mackmen will bust up again to play two sets of exhibition games.

Hot Springs, Ark.—The Yannis got 14 hits and defeated the Pirate regulars 9 to 2.

San Francisco—George Stueland of the Chicago Cubs pitched an entire game against San Francisco, winning 5 to 3. Stueland let the seals down with eight hits.

Seguin, Tex.—Every minute of playable weather this week is being utilized by the Chicago White Sox in a final effort to round the team into condition by the time the permanent camp here is broken up Friday. Continual high winds and rains have been exceptionally hard on the Sox pitchers.

DEATH OF ACTRESS MOURNED BY WORLD

the great brick walls that harbored the crushed flower of France, their modern Joan D'Are and the greatest actress of all time. They came at the rate of 150 an hour to pay homage at her shrine of death.

The funeral probably will be arranged for Thursday.

Early this morning government officials, cabinet members and those of highest estate in the land called at the residence. The subject of a state funeral was discussed among the relatives. No definite decision has been made.

Later the members of the family started removing the movie scenery from the living room to which the body will be brought. It will lie in state so that the rich and poor and unfortunate admirers may review it.

A rosewood casket which Bernhardt had purchased years ago in the wish that she might be buried in it was brought from the upper floor of the house. It is being lined with white silk. In it she had posed for death 25 years ago.

In the subways and boulevards throughout Paris, little groups were gathered reading eagerly from the morning newspapers which eulogized her as "the symbol of modern France." The prints stressed her great sincerity, her marvelous energy and her love for their common country.

The death of the great actress was as strange as her life. For hours she fought off the effects of the poison steadily creeping through her body like a drug. Armed with the great vitality which had enabled her to continue her work on the stage despite her 78 years, she fought off death. But the greatest strength finally prevailed, and she died at 8 o'clock last night.

The performance at the L'Aiglon theatre, where Bernhardt had intended playing prior to her illness, was stopped in the middle of the first act, and the audience left, many weeping.

AUGHERTY'S SON TO BE QUESTIONED

When Pecora saw this, although he had no previous or official intimation to link young Daugherty's name with the case, he deemed it sufficiently important to warrant his statement that he would ask the man to call on him at his office today.

Pecora will probably ask Daugherty to name the man who, according to the version given publicly here, telephone him twice and demanded that he be given a job with the department of justice, intimating that otherwise he would tell about Daugherty's alleged friendship with "the Broadway butterfly."

Identification of this man, it is believed, may lead to the gang which plotted to "shake down" Mitchell, Philadelphia millionaire and chloroformed Miss King when she refused to act as the bait.

Mitchell, who was involved in the case in revelations made by Pecora last Saturday, was understood to be in Washington today, waiting to meet his wife, who is enroute from Palm Beach to Philadelphia in the private car of E. T. Stotesbury, his millionaire father in law.

while at play. He tried to make them see the serious consequences that might result from picking up a wire that might be charged with electric current, the dangers of walking along railroad or interurban tracks and the multiplied chances that a child has each day to become permanently injured.

"None of you want to walk around on crutches the remainder of your days, do you?" Safety Sam asked, and the response in the form of shaking hands made it unanimous.

"It's hard enough to make a living nowadays with all your hands and arms and legs and feet and eyes and everything, so why take the chance of becoming a cripple?"

"When I was a little chap such as you are now," said Safety Sam to the little folks, "I never had the chance to get hurt that you have. I had to walk two miles to school and didn't have to cross a single railroad track. There were no electric wires that I could pick up. But even in those days, I remember we occasionally fell in the creek, and once a boy fell on a corn stock and was terribly cut."

To the high school, Safety Sam emphasized the importance of school boys and girls training themselves to be careful. He pointed to the loss of life that is due to carelessness, not alone at railroad crossings, but likewise in industrial plants.

In all, Safety Sam carried his message to eleven hundred pupils of the public schools, cautioning them all to be careful always in crossing streets, where the greatest danger lies. He warned school children to always look to the left before crossing the street, and then to the right after reaching the middle of the street, to make certain that no machine is coming.

Federal Judge Geiger scored attorneys for the defense for what he termed lack of order and cooperation.

"Let us get some order in this case," the judge said, interrupting the proceedings. "There has been none so far on the part of the defense."

The statement was made when Moses B. Liary, attorney for Mayor Johnson, asked permission to deviate from the outlined course of proceedings and put two witnesses on the stand to refute testimony of the government's star witness, Phillip Ukmann.

The court refused to grant the request.

I had heard of Lydia E. Boy Who Sells Candy Finds His Inspiration In The Bible

Indianapolis, Ind., March 29—
Twelve year old Carl Tucker is supporting his crippled mother and at the same time attending school.

His widowed mother temporarily crippled had to give up her job with a local laundry. She was dependent upon Carl, and Carl responded.

He didn't give up his school work however. Instead, he thought of a scheme whereby he could make sufficient money after school.

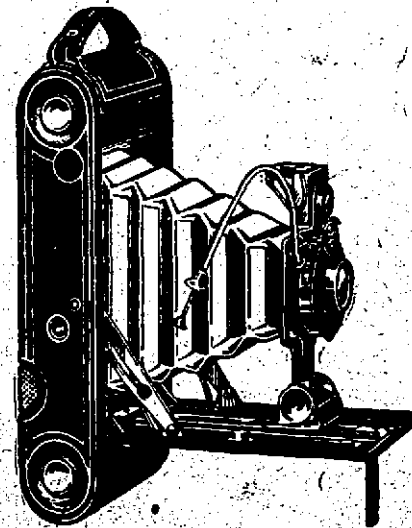

Candy! That might not mean much to most people, but to Carl it was little short of an inspiration.

Now he buys candy by the box and retails it at garages, fire stations, stores and other public places.

It is said he has drummed up quite a trade, in fact, enough to support his mother and himself.

"Don't you need some sort of inspiration?" he was asked.

"Oh, yes, I have inspiration, all right," he replied. He pulled a small book of Bible quotations from his pocket. "I get a lot of help from this book."

You make no mistake when you select the Series 23 Studebaker Special Six Touring Car. You can determine, in advance, why it is so desirable a car to own by doing four simple things:

Come in and inspect it carefully—from radiator to stop-and-tail light. Note its long, graceful lines, the beauty of its finish and upholstery, its sturdy construction, roominess and unusual equipment.

Get behind the wheel yourself. See how conveniently all controls are placed. Notice what a relief it is to have a one-piece, rain-proof windshield, giving unobstructed view of the road ahead.

Test its acceleration, power, flexibility. Drive through traffic at low speed in high gear. See how conveniently it can be parked where space is limited.

Then compare any car within $300 of its price with the Special Six.

And finally talk to some Special Six owners. Ask them frankly about their all-round satisfaction with the car.

The Special Six possesses every essential for lasting satisfaction.

COMMON WITH POTATO VINES

Mixture For Preventing Diseases And Manner Of Using It Are Prepared For Farmers

Spraying in Rush county is followed by most farmers in order to get rid of potato bugs but spraying to control diseases and keep the vines vigorous is not commonly done. The practice of thoroughly spraying has given increase in other parts of the state, of as much as 30 bushels per acre. Whether or not growers can afford to spray in Rush county will depend upon conditions in your potato fields. If your vines die before frost on the late crop or the early ones die prematurely with tip burn, then you can keep them green and growing about two weeks longer, by thorough spraying with Bordeaux mixture.

However, unless you are equipped with a sprayer, that will deliver 150 pounds pressure under three nozzles to a row, then you had better not spray with Bordeaux for tests have shown that only thorough spraying with high power will give increased yields.

Bordeaux mixture can be mixed with lead arsenate and the bugs controlled at the same time. The first spray usually applied when the vines are about four to six inches high and repeated every 10 day to two weeks until four applications are made.

Just how to make Bordeaux mixture, proper equipment, and how to arrange it is all given in Purdue Extension Bulletin 89 which may be had at the county agent's office free of charge.

Watson Says It Was Just Like Talking Down Rain Barrel

Washington, March 29—Senator Jim Watson of Indiana has a most persuasive way about him and, as one of the senate "leaders," usually may be counted on to bring home the bacon when he goes after information from departments under the present administration.

During the recent period of speculation as to what America was or was not doing in Europe, however, Jim had hard luck.

An interview with a high diplomatic official which Jim and his colleagues had counted on to enlighten them as to just what was what produced nothing of tangible value. Jim himself had been forced to do all the talking. The diplomat, being a real diplomat, had simply listened.

"What luck? What'd you find out?" senators "in the know" inquired of Watson after he returned from the state department.

Thrills Galore At Princess

The search for a thrill, a new and unique thrill with the tingle of swift and dramatic action, is ever the problem of the motion picture producer. As time passes and producers continue to outdo one another in the development of thrills on the screen, one begins to wonder when, if ever, the great storehouse of thrills will be exhausted. What, moreover, will producers do then?

Emory Johnson, famous producer of "The Third Alarm" for F. B. O., has a knack of developing thrills that carry all the tingle and crash of a Jovian thunderbolt—yet Mr. Johnson, as he admitted recently, is hard put to it in his constant efforts to create new and big ideas to build up his photoplays.

In "The Third Alarm," for instance, Mr. Johnson took a number of ideas that had been the basis of thrills in the past but he has done them in such a novel manner, and developed them in such magnitude, that screen critics are hailing him as a genius in this phase of photoplay construction.

The great fire scene is a case in point. There have been fire scenes on the screen before. There is nothing especially novel in such an episode. But the conflagration in the unusual picture at the Princess again today has been developed by the hand of a master—a director who knows to the last detail how to project a scene from the screen in order to get across to the audience the full measure of its dramatic effect.

The fire scene in "The Third Alarm" hits the spectator right smack in the eye. It comes at you full force with a bang! It is this manner of introducing the fire scene that makes it entirely new and novel as a factor of entertainment that reflects the high skill of Mr. Johnson and his technical staff.

At The Mystic Today

Students of the American Indian are as one in declaring that if there is one characteristic of the Indian that stands out above all others it is his ability to keep his troubles to himself, but never to forget a wrong that has been done to him.

The Indian is stoical. That is, he is slow, deliberate and undemonstrative. What he does he does with great deliberation. Cases are on record of Indians who have waited fifty years to even a score, without breathing their secret to a living soul.

That is the type portrayed by Al Hart, the sterling actor of western roles, in his newest starring vehicle, "The Trail to Red Dog," which in this picture Al Hart, for himself comes to the Mystic today.

In this picture Al Hart, for the first time in his long and brilliant screen career, departs from the western types that have made him famous all over the world where ever the silver sheet is shown. He plays the part of an Indian chief and he does not play it in an over-drawn or "story book" manner, but exactly as he has seen the Indians on their own reservations in the west where he has lived all of his life.

As Chief White-Horse, he sees a no-account white man come into his camp, win the love of his daughter and then leave her as a broken toy. Heartbroken, the maiden plunges from a cliff to her death. The Chief swears vengeance. He waits for several years, but finally finds his man, in the midst of a chain of events so exciting and replete with thrills that the audiences that have seen it, literally jump out of their seats. You will have no dull moments when you go to see "The Trail to Red Dog" at the Mystic today.

"Nero" At The Annex

A motion picture of unusual interest and worth will be given at the Graham Annex auditorium, April 5 and 6. The picture is entitled "Nero" and depicts the history of Rome at the time that tyrant Nero reached the height of his ambitions. The story of Nero's heartlessness and nefarious mode of life gives a true picture, which shows by comparison the great advance in the true picture, which shows by comparison the real advance in the true type of rulers.

Nero longs to immortalize himself by expressing in song his nefarious deeds. Although a poor singer, he plans to burn Rome and while the city is burning to write a lyric to show off the marvelous possibilities of his voice. The scene showing the burning city is full of thrills, for while the mad flames leap from building to building, Nero tries in vain to compose the song which shall bring him undying fame.

In the midst of the ruler's effort to complete the lyric, the enraged populace rush to the palace and charge Nero with having ordered the city to be burned. His wicked wife standing near him suggests to Nero that he throw the blame upon the Christians. Nero gets the attention of the mob and leads it to believe that the Christians are to blame for the holocaust. Nero declares that the Christians shall be thrown to the lions for their iniquity.

The scene of the lions in the arena ends the triumph of the wicked Nero, for then Horatius returns in triumph from Spain and a plot to make Galba emperor instead of the tyrant Nero brings the story to a close, after Nero takes his own life, and the ways is left open for Horatius and Marcia to become man and wife.

Tickets may be bought from the senior class of the Rushville high school which is sponsoring the entertainment.

Wife Fully Restored From Long-Standing Stomach Trouble, Declares Oetzel

"I know from experience that Tanlac is worth many times more than its cost. It ended my wife's indigestion, built her up twenty pounds, and I am now taking it myself," declared Louis Oetzel, 117 Putnam Ave., East Peoria, Ill.

"For four years my wife suffered so terribly with stomach trouble, and her appetite was so poor she grew thin, weak and run-down to where she was just a shadow of her former self. What little food she ate seemed to do her more harm than good and she would suffer for days with bilious attacks. She was never without headache, kept on losing weight and going down hill all the time.

"But she is a different person since taking the Tanlac treatment. Her appetite is a wonder, her food all agrees with her, she has no more biliousness or headaches and, in short, is rid of all her old troubles. Tanlac has been a blessing to her and we will always praise it."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 35-million bottles sold.

Lest You Forget How Soon Easter Comes

WE have gathered together a wide range of suits for a Special Easter Showing. Among the models offered appear tailleurs for street and afternoon wear with very smart box or blouse jackets, many three piece costume suits charming in their trimming detail.

The tendency this season is to get away from the too tailored lines and there is certain simplicity of cut in all suits together with that charming inclination to be extremely feminine in all matters of style.

Twill predominates for material popularity, though Tricotine, Tweeds, Camel's Hair, Bryn Mawr fabrics and mixtures are also represented.

CHAIRMAN MAKES AN APPEAL

D. D. Ball Has Arranged Meeting
Thursday For Those Interested—
Quota is 4,600 Bushels

With the largest corn crop of any other county for the year 1922, Rush County can not fail to do her share this year in the Gift Corn Campaign for the starving children of the Near East, which will be launched in the county the first part of April. D. D. Ball, the director of the drive for this county, is calling a meeting of leaders to be held at the court house assembly room next Thursday afternoon.

At the meeting a message will be received from a volunteer worker in the work from Shelby County, a man who put over his township to the tune of over 1000 bushels of corn last year.

The donations from this township alone meant keeping 1000 orphans alive for two months and a half. The speaker is coming to the meeting without compensation, merely because he has the work at heart.

Compared to the showing of this one township, Rush county raised only 1033 bushels altogether last year, and the quota was 3500 bushels. But old Rush will come back and redeem herself this year and will no doubt subscribe her full quota which is 4600 bushels.

At the organization meeting next Thursday carefully picked leaders from each township will work out the plan of the campaign. Mr. Ball Continued on Page Two

The litter of eight pigs farrowed January 11 on the farm of Chester A. Mead of Orange township, weighed a total of 417 pounds, with an average weight of 52 pounds. It was erroneously reported two weeks ago that they weighed 132 pounds at twelve weeks of age. That was their weight at three weeks of age, at which time the largest one in the litter weighed 19 1/2 pounds and the smallest one 14 pounds.

At this time of year lumps or bots the size of a quarter or a little larger are to be found on the backs of cattle. These are caused by the larvae or maggots of a two-winged bee-like fly known as the ox warble or heel fly, according to G. M. Stirrett of the Department of Entomology of Purdue University. "The general adoption of simple practices at this season of the year," says Mr. Stirrett, "will eliminate the large losses which are at present being experienced by the farmers of Indiana."

This insect causes an annual loss of about $2,000,000 to the cattle owners of Indiana through the depreciation in value of hides which are rendered unfit for use as high grade leather by the holes made by the maggots. Other losses to the cattle industry from this insect are difficult to accurately estimate but infested cattle, especially young animals, show a loss of flesh, a retarded growth and in the case of milking cows a lessened milk flow.

There is no practical spray for the control of this insect. However, a simple and practical control which is harmless to animals and very effective against the maggots is a treatment of the bot-pores with a mixture of iodoform and vaseline. The insecticide is easily prepared by thoroughly mixing one part of iodoform in five parts of vaseline. The animals should be examined frequently during February, March and April, and as the lumps become noticeable a small amount of the iodoform mixture, about the size of a small pea, is pressed into the small hole at the summit of the swelling. Since the bots develop over a period of several months it is important that the animals be examined frequently during the late winter and early spring months and the newly forming bots treated as they appear. The insect has a complicated life

I think soy beans planted with corn and hogged off makes the cheapest pork that the farmer can produce. Wm. Plessinger.

I sowed seed solid with drill and was bothered with weeds. Would sow in rows and cultivate. Harvested with hogs and they did fine. Don't believe I wasted a bean. Soys are alright. T. C. King.

I think soy beans one of the promising crops I ever started to raise. My beans will be drilled as before only a little thicker and a little deeper. R. L. Blount.

I think that soy beans furnish a good cheap homegrown supplement to corn for feeding hogs. I do not like soy bean hay; the stems are too stiff and hard. However, the cows like the leaves and finer part. Paul E. McDaniel.

Am going to plant all corn in soy beans, put them in silo and fodder and the rest hog down in the field. Edw. J. Chambers.

Second best crop on farm (corn being first.) I will probably use binder instead of self-rake. I plant in rows 30 inches apart. How is this for a rotation? 1 year corn, 1 year corn and soys hogged off, 1 year soys alone, 1 year wheat or rye, 1 year clover? Emory VanDeventer.

I get well paid for the time and expenditure on the sowing of soy beans in my corn. The only trouble I find is the beans shell out too quick and I think many are lost.

I like them fine as hay and as a splendid crop where clover has failed; as feed for hogs, as a con-

SOY BEANS HAVE ANOTHER PURPOSE

Soy Bean Oil Meal For Laying Pullets is New Product Passed Upon by Purdue Experts

FEW PLANTS IN OPERATION

May be Big Demand For Crops When Plants Become More Numerous to Supply The Demands

Soy beans are being raised in greater abundance each year in Rush county and the state, because of their value in certain crop rotations, and even an added benefit is brought out, in a preliminary report of feeding soy bean oil meal to laying pullets, made public by Purdue experts.

As yet the soy bean oil meal is in its primitive stage, because there are only a few such plants in existence, and the demand cannot be supplied, but the value of such feed has been tested by Purdue officials, and favorably passed upon.

The soy bean oil meal will no doubt make a big demand for the crop among the farmers in the near future years, and a three-fold purpose will result. First, it will give the land the needed ingredients for crop rotations; secondly it will create a stronger demand for the beans for the commercialized purpose, and third, it will supply poultry raisers with feed for their chickens.

Those who raise soy beans have been endeavoring to find a place for them in the rations of farm animals, in order that they may get the greatest income from this crop. There are springing up over the country, mills which will take the oil from the soy beans, leaving a residue known

By E. M. HARSH
Managing Editor of
The Hampshire Advocate

The palatial country home shown here was built and a Stutz automobile purchased from the profits of Hampshire Hogs during 1916 and 1917 at a total net cost of over $13,000.

R. T. Stanford is farming 320 acres of Indiana land near Boston, Indiana.

Everyone of the hogs was a Hampshire from registered stock and every one of them went to the packers' market. R. T. Stanford unhesitatingly gives the credit for this wonderful home, modern in every conceivable way and equal in every respect—even to the landscape gardening—to a millionaire's country estate, to the Hampshire brood sow.

During the years of 1918 and 1919 this man marketed from this one farm a total amount of $29,846.55, in eleven shipments of hogs as follows:

February 11, 1918	$3,543.59
March 9, 1918	2,936.13
July 13, 1918	503.08
August 17, 1918	596.61
September 5, 1918	5,018.05
January 11, 1919	4,810.99
February 21, 1919	2,710.75
June 9, 1919	2,516.93
August 2, 1919	3,284.69
August 9, 1919	100.00
December 26, 1919	2,375.23
January, 1920, (hogs raised and fed in 1919)	1,450.50
Total	$29,846.55

These hogs were all fed and raised on the products of this 320 acres of Indiana land. The commission receipts and even bank pass book were sent to this office to verify these figures. $29,846.55 was a pretty good salary, even during 1918-19, to be getting from the hogs—making it quite worth while to do the hog chores. There are some who may say, "Oh, well! That was during 'boom' times when hogs were selling high," but do not forget that the opportunity in the hog business was not as great then as it is right now. The hogs represented by the above figures sold at an average of a little less than 17c per pound. With the hog market now at 10c and corn selling for only about half as much as it did during 1918 and 1919, the margin of profit is decidedly greater now than then.

Following is a part of Mr. Stanford's letter giving some detailed information as to how his hogs were handled: "These hogs—covered by the figures I have included on a separate sheet, in support of which, I am sending both my commission man's statements and my bank pass book—were all raised on 320 acres of land. They were watered in galvanized and concrete tanks and I make a special effort to keep troughs cleaned out every day—scraped out and fresh water supplied at all times. My hog houses and my hogs are both kept clean and free from parasites and disease.

"I never allow to exceed three sows, with their pigs to run together in one lot. I keep them separate in these lots of three until the pigs are old enough to wean and then turn them together, so as to take less care. I allow the pigs to run at all times to some kind of clover, alfalfa, or blue grass pasture adjoining their lot. I keep my fattening hogs well bedded with clean straw in cold weather, to prevent their piling up and to prevent such epidemics as 'flu.' With all my feeding hogs, I feed on concrete floors which are kept clean, with corn in self feeders, as I have been able to make greater gains in feeding shelled corn. My hogs, of all ages have access to salt, charcoal, oil meal and tankage fed in self feeders, at all times, with alfalfa meal added in the winter.

"I am enclosing a photograph of my house which was paid for by Hampshire hogs. Every dollar which was put in it as well as a Stutz car in 1917—the two totaling over $13,000—was profit from Hampshire market hogs that I sold in 1916 and '17. My profit for 1918 and '19, you may judge for yourself, from the figures which I have already given you—a total of $29,846.55 worth of Hampshires marketed."

"I am a 'dyed-in-the-wool' Hampshire enthusiast, or, as I put it, 'Hampshirized.' Although not a registered breeder, I do use registered stock. The reason that I have been raising Hampshire hogs for the past seven years is that they do not lie around the barns and buildings and are the greatest range hogs I know of. I have been raising hogs all my life and am now fifty-two years of age and have raised Chester Whites, Duroc Jerseys, Poland Chinas, and Hampshires. At the present time I am feeding 125 fat hogs, also have 125 head of fall pigs on 160 acres of land. (Signed) R. T. STANFORD.

A wonderful country home such as the one shown in this illustration, built entirely from the proceeds of feeding market hogs should serve as proof of the stability of that side of the pure bred business and as an ideal for all of our farmers and breeders to work toward. Remember this man raised practically all of his feed and that he was able to build this home through the profits from two years of feeding Hampshires. Under the conditions we now face there is just as great an opportunity in the hog business as we have ever seen. The present margin of profit between the price of grain and the price of hogs even further justifies the pure bred hog business from the market standpoint, in that we are again getting back to normal conditions. It justified it during the hard times we have just passed through and it justified it during the "boom" times immediately following the war.

The maggots spend from 10 to 11 months within the animal working their way through the body tissues. By spring they have found their way to the back. When they arrive here they cut minute holes through the hide through which they breathe. This opening at once offers a means of reaching the maggot by insecticidal treatment as already suggested.

said today that he has no doubt as to the outcome of the campaign because of the fact that those who will attend the meeting are ones that are interested in work of this kind.

By the time the campaign is completed all Rush county will be interested in the big problem of the Near East and the saving of thousands of Christian orphans who will die of starvation if not helped by America and other Christian nations.

The Rush County quota is the amount of corn required to produce 46,000 pounds of pork. The same amount of corn will prolong the life of 11,500 Armenian children for a period of one month.

"Will Rush county do this?" is the question which Rush county farmers have to answer and those behind the campaign believe that they will respond to this appeal.

A cablegram from Constantinople, dated March 14, which has been distributed among county chairmen working in the corn appeal, tells of the conditions in the Near East as follows:

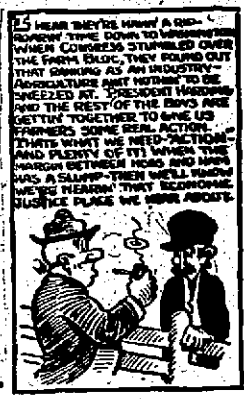

"Today's shipland of exiles from Asiatic Turkey increased to 32,000 the total number of refugees now at Constantinople. Sick, destitute and without food, clothing or homes to go to, they present a tremendous relief problem calling for prompt energetic action if they are not all to perish.

Constantinople is menaced by the worst epidemic of diseases in its tragic history. Near East Relief has gone to their assistance with American doctors, nurses, medicines food-stuffs and clothing, thus assuming a new responsibility severely taxing its limited resources.

In the harbor, crowded with twenty-one warships of seven different nations, are four refugee ships crammed with deportees from Asia Minor, who have waited for days to be landed. Ashore, at eleven different places along the beautiful Bosphorus, earlier arrivals are huddled together in windowless, doorless, leaky buildings, under conditions beyond description. Afloat and ashore, smallpox, typhus, dysentery and pneumonia go unchecked. Yesterday's death toll in Bosphorus camps was seventy-two. Weakened by days of travel, by wagon and on-foot from interior Anatolia to the Black Sea ports, Trebizonde and Samsoun, these wretched people fall easy victims to disease. On one ship enroute 200 died out of 2500, and Doctor Wilfred Post of Princeton called it a "Black Hole of Calcutta."

At Sentari, where the worst conditions prevail, 10,000 deportees are existing in Selamlı Barracks and stables. Deaths average 25 daily. Typhus today claimed the last member of a family of twelve to fall victims to that disease since arrival here. The fourth physician to die of the same malady while attending refugees succumbed yesterday. Dr. Post, on one of his rounds, counted 100 dead bodies. Wrapped in bundles of rags, death had come days before the living knew it. One room contained 53 bodies. Refugees were afraid to bury them for fear of contracting disease. 3000 people, who a few weeks ago were prosperous farmers in Anatolia, live on mud floors of stables, where many of

Our farm journals and newspapers carry numerous contributions and editorials regarding what is said to be an essential change which must be made in the type of hog which farmers must raise for market. They say farmers must raise hogs which will meet the packer's demand and that demand is for a "bacon" or "meat type" hog. They say the big type hog no longer is profitable for the farmer because it is not the kind of hog the packer wants.

I believe this propaganda is absolutely misleading. The Chicago packers promote and support a swine carcass contest every year at the International Livestock Exposition. The barrow at the 1922 Exposition which dressed out the highest percentage of edible meat, with seven breeds competing, was a big type poland china, and the barrows of the same breed made a higher av-as soy bean oil meal, containing between 45 and 50 percent protein. This makes it a very valuable source of supplying protein appearing to be comparable with meat scraps which contains 50 percent protein and tankage which contains 60 percent protein.

The poultry department of Purdue started investigations in 1920 to find a place for soy bean oil meal in the hen's ration. This feed must not be confused with ground soy beans, sometime called soy bean meal, according to the Purdue investigation, as the oil is an entirely different process.

The Purdue station has conducted the experiment with the new food for two years, and the result was most encouraging. When such plants are established in this state, it will no doubt cause farmers in Rush county to increase their yield and prove profitable in many ways.

TO INSURE WORLD AGAINST DISASTER

At Red Cross Conference and League Assembly Decision Will be Taken on Mutual Insurance

MAY DRAW UP NEW TREATY

Treaty Would Pledge International Assistance in Case of Peoples Stricken with Natural Calamities

By HENRY WOOD
(U. P. Staff Correspondent)

Geneva, (By Mail to the U. P.)—With the meeting here in August of the eleventh International Red Cross conference, to be followed in September by the fourth annual assembly of the League of Nations, definite decision will be taken on launching a sort of international mutual insurance against adverse acts of the divine providence.

Briefly there is proposed an international treaty pledging international assistance in the case of peoples stricken with great natural calamities such as famine, earth quake, tidal waves, cyclones, fires, droughts, typhoons, volcanic eruptions and similar disasters.

In the good old days when it was generally believed that such calamities were visited by a Divine Providence on peoples because of their evil ways, other nations might have hesitated about getting themselves in bad with the said Divine Providence by interfering with its punishments, but in these days of international collaboration, the above project presents the last word in the realm of international relief.

The project which originated with Senator Ciracolo, president of the Italian Red Cross, has been formally presented not only to the international conference at Genoa last spring, but also to the International Red Cross society and the League of Nations. It now depends on the latter two to decide whether it shall be translated into reality.

In the event of an affirmative decision a new international convention and treaty will probably be drawn up under the auspices of the League of Nations and submitted to all the nations of the world for the signatures and ratifications of those who wish to join this new development of international co-operation. The actual carrying out of mutual, international relief pledged would be entrusted to the Red Cross.

As a matter of fact, backers of the project point out, that the various national Red Cross organizations the world over have been extending this relief of their own initiative for a great many years. It is now merely proposed to coordinate, systematize and render obligatory this sort of insurance.

Since the project for pledging international relief was first broached a year ago, the world has suffered several more of these calamities such as the famine and epidemics in Russia; the earthquake in Chili; the burning of Smyrna, the flight of the near-east refugees in which the various Red Cross societies have had to intervene of their own voluntary initiative.

No effort is made to conceal the fact that in accepting the obligations of such a treaty many nations would have to pledge great relief with a very small likelihood that they would ever get anything in return. England for example has gone for centuries without any great natural calamities while other countries like Italy have a perpetual plethora of them.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel. Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth," bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night just to keep right. Try them. 15c and 30c.

By CHAS. C. DEAM.

(State Forester for The Department of Conservation)

The holdings of landlords in Indiana increases as our forest area decreases. That there is a very close and important relation between Indiana forests and the holdings of landlords is not far-fetched, and is an important phase of forestry that has been neglected.

As one journeys throughout Indiana his attention is directed to the many decadent and empty dwellings in the rural districts. In the rich agricultural districts the old home steads have been replaced by more commodious homes in more desirable relations to good roads, schools, churches and other conveniences. The old homestead became the home of a tenant. He was regularly employed on the farm of the landlord or by neighboring farmers during the summer months and during summer and winter months worked at various tasks. When improved agricultural machinery came into universal use, and forests began to wane, the tenant was out of a job, at least much of his time, and was forced to move to the city. Statistics show that our rural population is steadily decreasing. In many of our counties the decrease during the past twenty years amounts to 10 to 19 per cent, while Brown County, one of the hilliest counties, has had a decrease of 28 per cent.

In our hilly counties there is another reason for this exodus to the city. When the hill farmer started his farm he sawed and sold enough timber to erect his buildings. In a few years he was able by farming in the summer time and working in the forest in the winter time to purchase and pay for his farm equipment. Soon "taxes got high" and "times got hard", simply because the virgin soil fertility has been exhausted from the hills and now even with commercial fertilizers he is not able to make "ends meet." His forest area has so decreased that there is no longer a lucrative job in the woods all winter long. He struggles along year after year. He can not rebuild because his forest has depleted and he has no savings account. He is forced to sell out and move to the city. Since his buildings are worn out, and his land is so poor that capital would not be justified in renewing them, the land passes into the hands of a more prosperous neighbor or absent landlord. Thus slowly but surely our poorer class of land as well as the richer is being absorbed and joined to larger tracts.

If every land owner would maintain a reasonable part of his farm in woodland, the forest would furnish the owner his fuel every year, which would enable him to utilize all of his spare time during the winter months to a good profit. In time when his buildings need repair or replacement, he would saw and sell enough from his woods for this purpose. A woods on a farm is the safest "building association" known, and no farm should be without a forest.

LEARNS OF BROTHER SHE DID NOT KNOW EXISTED

Wabash, March 27—Miss Laveria Ort, adopted daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ort, Wabash, has been apprised of the existence of a brother she did not know existed and Edward Miller of Chicago has found the sister for whom he has been conducting a search for five years and who he had not seen in 18 years.

Learning of the brother's existence through Mrs. Earl McCoy of Peru, Mrs. Ort went to Chicago where she succeeded in locating Miller, who accompanied her back to Wabash where there was a joyous meeting with the sister. Miss Ort is a teacher in the public school at Rich Valley.

VOICE WITH A SMILE IS MATTER OF HEALTH

Chicago, March 27—The voice with a smile is the result of good health and pleasant surroundings, officials of the Illinois Bell Telephone Company declared, in commenting on twenty years effort to protect the health of their "Hello Girls".

All telephone exchanges today have the most modern conveniences and sanitary working conditions for the comfort of the girl employees, but few have advanced to the point of a country home.

The Illinois company several years ago purchased a 48-acre tract near Warrenville, Ill., furnished it luxuriously, and established the "Margaret Mackin" home.

It is maintained for girls convalescing from various ailments or suffering from infectious diseases.

Every outdoor sport known for winter and summer is available for the girls and hundreds of girls go to the "Home" each year to get the "smile" back in their voices.

$40,000,000 STEEL PLANT IS IN PROJECT

Jones-Laughlin Company of Hammond Plans to Buy 282 Acres From State and 39 Acres More

TO RESULT IN HIGHER LAND.

(By United Press)

Hammond, March 27—A steel plant to cost $40,000,000 is in project here.

The Jones-Laughlin steel company is planning to buy 282 acres from the state and 159 acres from the East Chicago Land company.

For this purpose a law was passed by the legislature providing that if five property holders of Lake county file a petition favoring the sale of the public land to the steel plant, the state may sell it.

It was announced at the Auditor of State's office in Indianapolis that no petition has been filed yet, but in the near future it is expected as the proposed plant will mean increased land values for neighboring property and a boom in the population of Hammond.

The proposed plant has ideal railroad facilities. Already a canal 22 feet deep and 200 feet wide connects with Lake Michigan one mile away. Some dredging will be necessary to make the canal large enough to accommodate Great Lakes boats.

With the steel plant almost a certainty now, Hammond faces another influx of foreign-born for citizens.

AN EXPERT WITNESS

Fort-Wayne, Ind., March 27—All the fine art of rollin de bones, all the spirit with which dusky negroes play their favorite game of African golf, all the twists and turns of making dice whirl on their corners and fall on six ace, five deuce or four trey.

All this which many men spend a great part of their lives in mastering were exhibited within a few minutes to an Allen county grand jury investigating a negro murder.

Not only the grand jurors but even the prosecuting attorneys professed ignorance of the great indoor sport, while they investigated the death of William Brown, negro, shot by Louis Dupee. So they had to practice—not the grand jurors, but the prosecuting attorneys.

The point at issue was which one of the two men was right in their dispute over the twirling of the cubes. Not only practice, but the expert testimony of another young negro awaiting trial was called in the investigation.

TRADING BLOOD FOR EDUCATION

Philadelphia, March 27 (United Press).—Many medical students at the University of Pennsylvania are selling their blood to help pay for their education.

Turning their blood into gold is accomplished by submitting to blood transfusion operations. The usual fee to the bloodgiver ranges from $25 to $100.

The practice is limited to almost exclusive medical students and in one medical fraternity half the members are now selling their blood. Other undergraduates do not seem willing to run the risk.

The pure blood of qualified volunteers is tapped for the benefit of patients whose life depends on an emergency supply. Not every student is permitted to submit to such an operation. His blood must meet certain rigid requirements and there must be an abundance of red corpuscles.

"Selling blood has been a practice among future doctors at Penn for some time," according to Dr.

L. L. Gardner of the University Hospital.

"It may be an easy way to make money, but we do not encourage the practice. The medical students do it of their own accord and in fact some of them need the money so badly that they insist on sacrificing their blood for transfusion purposes. We now limit each volunteer to three operations a year."

If you are a constipation victim you need Bran that is ALL BRAN

Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, is so delicious and inviting that thousands of families use it constantly to make enticing bakery batches, such as bran muffins, pancakes, raisin bread, etc.; they eat it as a cereal, and many sprinkle it on their favorite cereal, its nut-like flavor laying a fine appeal.

Many more thousands of people eat Kellogg's Bran every day of their lives because it has permanently relieved them of constipation and the dangers of dreaded diseases that constipation leads to. If you are suffering with constipation you need ALL BRAN—Kellogg's Bran—with its permanent corrective qualities. Foods that are part bran can never give the desired relief because they do not contain sufficient of the elements that Kellogg's Bran naturally contains.

Laport—Women's clubs have asked city council to pass curfew law requiring children under 16 to be home by 9:45 in the summer and 9:15 in winter.

Kokomo—A reunion of mother and son, who had been separated 18 years, took place at the home of Floyd Bitter when his mother came here from Detroit.

When you know that constipation heads directly to Bright's disease and other ailments, there is no time to be lost in experimenting. Kellogg's Bran, delicious in its patented cooked and krumbled form, becomes an immediate necessity. If it is eaten regularly (two tablespoons daily; in chronic cases with each meal)—it will relieve constipation permanently! Your physician will recommend Kellogg's Bran. It will free you from proprietary pills and cathartics which are as system-racking and a most as dangerous to health as constipation itself!—Serve Kellogg's Bran regularly. Watch the health of your entire family improve. It is wonderful for children. Kellogg's recipes are printed on each package. All grocers sell Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled.

MRS. G. W. HALL SICK FOR YEARS

Wants Women to Know How She Was Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Lima, Ohio.—"Indeed, your medicine is all you say it is! I had very severe troubles such as women often have, and could do no heavy work. I was sick for several years, and from reading your ads I finally decided to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I am now doing my own washing, which I haven't done for several years, and can walk long distances without those dragging pains and weak feelings. The Vegetable Compound is fine, and I never forget to say a good word for it to other women when they say they need something."—Mrs. G. W. HALL, 639 Hazel Avenue, Lima, Ohio.

There are many women who find their household duties almost unbearable owing to some weakness or derangement. The trouble may be slight, yet cause such annoying symptoms as dragging pains, weakness and a run-down feeling. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a splendid medicine for such conditions. It has in many cases relieved those symptoms by removing the cause of them. Mrs. Hall's experience is but one of many.

KEEP GUARD FIT IS KEYNOTE OF APPEAL

Good Personnel, Adequate Armory
And Continuous and Staunch Moral Support Held Necessary

ARTICLE BY MAJOR WILLIAMS

Discussion of Subject Sanctioned by Adjutant General Smith, Who
Mails Copy to Local Company

"Keep the Guard Fit" is the keynote to an article on the National Guard written by Major Kenneth P. Williams of Bloomington, showing how citizens of every community can co-operate to make this branch of the national defense better and stronger.

The discussion of the question has the unqualified sanction of Harry B. Smith, adjutant general of Indiana, and he has mailed copies of it to all Guard units in the state, one of which has been received here by Will B. Brann, captain of Company C, 151st Infantry, of this city.

Major Williams points out that to make a good Guard unit, three things are necessary—a good personnel, an adequate armory and continuous and staunch moral support, in the following:

It is well known that in 1917 the country was in no way prepared for the war into which it entered. In spite of the universal assertion made at that time that such a condition must not be allowed to exist again, there is a drift towards the same situation. The same indifference, the same lack of responsibility, on the part of many citizens, is apparent. The country is ineradicably opposed to universal training in peace times; it is equally opposed to any but the smallest Regular Army. There is left as a fundamental part of the defense system the National Guard. Having decided to put reliance on the Guard it rests with the citizens of the country to make it fit for the great responsibility that they have put upon it. The War Department alone cannot make the National Guard effective, though it is devoting great effort to achieve all it can. It is a problem for the citizen, the community, and the State.

To make a good National Guard Unit, one in which a city can take pride, three things are necessary—a good personnel, an adequate armory and continuous and staunch moral support.

The Guard wants good, clean, energetic young men. To be a good Guardsman a man must be willing to make some sacrifices; he must have a sense of obligation, a feeling of responsibility, and a conviction of his time. He must be loyal and willing to do work for which the compensation is not the governing motive. It has never been contended that such impulses were not laudable ones; and those persons to whom we owe much have been guided by such a spirit. But, excepting periods of great emergency, many persons give little unremunerated service to the country, and seem to feel that such service while necessary, is the exclusive duty of another. Their dollars and their time are to be devoted to their own advantage or their own enjoyment alone.

It is not contended that military drill is as entertaining or as attractive as shows or loafing, but service is not measured by enjoyment. The service rendered, however, is not without some remuneration. A member of the National Guard can earn $60.00 a year for his weekly drills, from the standpoint of time, the rate of pay being perhaps greater than that of his regular occupation. But no man will make the best soldier who is attracted only by the pay he can receive.

The officers of the Guard believe that it is the duty of the community to help find those young men who do have some of the spirit of devotion and service that has been described. They should come from all levels of society, for there is nothing democratic or very ennobling in a condition where the well-to-do allow peace-time military service to be the exclusive concern of those less fortunately situated. The National Guard Units ask that you do all that you can to put into its ranks some one in whose willingness to serve you can take pride. It wants you not only to approve of what it is trying to do, but to help, for you as a citizen, are a beneficiary of all parts of the system of National Defense.

A proper armory with some club and athletic features is necessary for a good organization. An adequate armory, if partly supported by the community, would meet a great need.

Before the war the Guard struggled against great odds, and was kept alive for the service of the entire country of the local sacrificing efforts of a few, who were not discouraged by the apathy and even reproaches of fellow citizens. In spite of such treatment from a public which has always been ever ready to call on the Guard when they became a bit frightened, the Guard rendered service in the war that they should be appreciated by every one who gives a moment of thought to anything besides his own affairs. Of the first 75,000 men who went over seas, 50,000 were Guardsmen. Two of the Divisions in the First American Corps were Regular Army, the other two were National Guard. Of the nine divisions that has casualties exceeding $10,000, four were National Guard, four Regular Army and one National Army. Two American Guard Divisions are credited by a well-known British writer for leading the advance and breaking the Hindenburg Line at Bellecourt, its strongest point.

The best way for you to show your appreciation for such service is by helping keep the Guard fit. Tell some young man that he has a peace time responsibility, and that the country needs a little service at all time. And if you are an employer of any Guardsmen try to arrange to let them off for their two weeks at camp in summer.

PLACED IN PITTSBURG MUSEUM

STATUE OF "KING TUT'S" MOTHER-IN-LAW

View of the small wooden bust of Queen Nefertiti, the mother-in-law of King Tut-Ankh-Amen, which has just been received at the Carnegie Museum in Pittsburgh. Tut married Amon-Su-Amkh, the old Queen's daughter, and thus made his path clear to the throne of Egypt. The statue was found at Tell-el-Amarna, the city that was abandoned by Tut-Ankh-Amon when he overthrew the God of the Sun, or Aton, and re-established the prestige of God Amun, changing his name to Tut-Ankh-Amon, or "the Glory of Amun"—the name now more commonly spelled Tut-Ankh-Amen.
